The Recycling Shed Will Be Restricted To Township Users

Members of Township Committee voted at their meeting of January 10, to rebuild the recycling shed at the Princeton Shopping Center, which was partially destroyed by fire in September.

Because Borough Council members decided last month against sharing the shed's operating cost, Committee also agreed that the facility will henceforth be off limits to Borough residents and businesses.

Director of Public Works Robert Kiser, who oversees the recycling facility, reported that the cost of rebuilding would amount to about $11,280, according to a low bid received from Brown & Glynn Construction Company in Somerset.

The Township's insurance carrier will reimburse $10,280 of the total, Mr. Kiser said; and shopping center management has pledged to contribute $3,000 because it "appreciates the presence of the shed, which it recognizes is a losing

Interim Superintendent to Be Named

Regional Schools Interim Superintendent Richard P. Marasco will not be returning to Princeton — except as a visitor. On Friday, January 7, with little fanfare or notice to the community, he quietly worked his final day at the Valley Road administration building and went home.

Jeffrey Graber, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, has assumed the duties of acting superintendent, pending board action on a new superintendent or interim appointment.

On Monday, January 10, Dr. Marasco and his wife headed for North Carolina to see their son. After a brief visit, they planned to take an extended vacation in Florida.

Dr. Marasco had already remained on the job in Princeton far longer than originally planned. When he assumed the duties of interim superintendent on April 8, he indicated that he expected to be needed for no longer than six months.

The word from members of the board search committee through December was that selection of a permanent superintendent was imminent. At press time, however, no selection had taken place.

An ad hoc selection committee, made up of community representatives, as well as PRS teachers, administrators, and board members, screened 34 applications. They initially narrowed the field to six, finally recommending three candidates to the board in early December.

Dr. Marasco believed, he said, that one of the three designated finalists would be named before the end of the year — until the last possible moment.

"I told the board early on that I would be available through the end of the year," he said last week, "and I indicated in December that I would not be back after the holiday break."

When it became clear that no selection would be made before the New Year, Dr. Marasco said, he agreed to return for one last week.

The board confirmed the identity of only one finalist — Arthur Stellar, superintendent in Kingston, N.Y. As TOWN TOPICS went to press, it appeared that the strength of that candidacy was waning.

Dr. Stellar's identity was initially disclosed by a reporter for the Kingston newspaper, The Daily Freeman, who contacted members of the press in Princeton and Trenton. When Dr. Stellar confirmed that he was a candidate and that PRS board members had scheduled a site visit in Kingston for Tuesday, January 4, local newspapers published the information.

Princeton Teen Survives Crash But Loses Both Her Parents

Consoled by family, friends, and well wishers, Molly Haupt said goodbye to her parents on Saturday at a funeral in Princeton followed by a graveside service in Hopewell.

The 18-year-old — a Columbia University freshman who graduated from Princeton High last June — was flying from Princeton Airport to Charleston, S.C. in a single-engine plane piloted by her father, when the plane crashed in a dense swamp, 25 miles from its destination, between 9:30 and 10 p.m. January 3, according to National Transportation Safety Board investigator Phil Powell.

Molly Haupt escaped with cuts and bruises. Her parents — William and Sharon Haupt, both 56 and of Princeton, were killed.

Mr. Haupt had been a licensed pilot for at least 35 years. He got a license to fly private planes in 1965, according to the Federal Aviation Administration. He flew planes in Vietnam, and was employed as a commercial pilot for United Airlines until his death. He passed his love of flying down to his daughter, who flew solo for the first time on her 16th birthday.

Sharon Haupt had just retired from her librarian's job at Princeton High School. Her last day at work came right before the school broke for the holidays. She died the day school resumed, and never got to enjoy a retirement she was excited about.

"She wasn't ambivalent about her retirement," said PHS principal John Kazmark. "She looked forward to it."

The family had planned to fly from Princeton to Charleston, then on to Key West, Fla. where they were to meet with a friend who flew with Mr. Haupt in Vietnam and was a fellow United Pilot, according to Rob Dewey of the Coastal Crises Chaplaincy, who consoled Molly Haupt during the two days she spent in South Carolina before returning to Princeton.

Lila Lohr, PDS School Head, Is Resigning

Lila Lohr, head of Princeton Day School for the past five years, announced her resignation to faculty members on Tuesday, January 11. She was expected to announce her resignation, effective at the end of June, to the student body on Wednesday, January 12.

Ms. Lohr said she was leaving PDS to accept a new position with an educational organization in Florida.

Ms. Lohr, who presided over the school's centennial celebration last year, made celebration of the school and its achievement a hallmark of her administration.

During an interview with TOWN TOPICS last fall, Ms. Lohr said that one of her goals was for PDS to assume a leadership role in the independent school community. "It is the best way to attract good teachers," she noted.

Besides making PDS into a leader in the independent school movement, Ms. Lohr sought to foster a "collaborative atmosphere" with other independent schools.

Dialogue on Education To Take Place at PHS

Congressman Rush Holt will provide an update on Congressional legislation related to education and will respond to questions from the audience at a forum to be held Wednesday, January 19, from 7:30 to 9:30, in the auditorium at Princeton High School.

The dialogue will be sponsored by the Princeton PTO Council, the Princeton Regional School Board, and the Princeton Area League of Women Voters.

Contributions Continue to Arrive As Fund Appeal Draws to a Close

As the 53rd annual TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund appeal enters its final weeks, it is greatly satisfying to announce that the fund has reached $68,221.

Over the next year, it will be these contributions that will be drawn on by a Family and Children's Services counselor to help individuals and families in our community.

Help might be needed to buy appropriate clothes for a new job; to provide tuition that will make it possible to embark on a new career; to help people pay rent and utility bills when illness has resulted in decreased income; or to pay for English as a Second Language courses.

These are just some of the ways the Town Topics Christmas Fund has helped Princeton people over the past few years. And each year brings new chances for neighbor to help neighbor.

The Fund is there for people who have depleted their resources and need temporary assistance to meet emergencies. It also provides summer opportunities for children who would otherwise be without a place to go during the long hot days, and offers tuition assistance to adults who are seeking a better life for themselves and their families.

To contribute, make checks payable to the Town Topics Christmas Fund and mail them to P.O. Box 664, Princeton 08542; or bring them to the Town Topics office at 4 Mercer Street.

All donations will be gratefully acknowledged.

She spearheaded the establishment of parent education workshops that were held in seven area private schools, on a rotating basis.

Under her leadership, also, the school moved forward with plans to install several new athletic fields and a new campus road, as well as a new softball field complex and soccer quad.

She spearheaded an ongoing campaign to raise funds for the conversion of the school cafeteria into a $2 million campus center.

AT THE SCENE: Emergency crews from the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and the Princeton Fire Department work to free Elizabeth A. Carey, 24, of East Windsor, from a Chevrolet brand Geo Tracker which flipped after hitting a tree on Faculty Road at 1:49 p.m. January 6. Ms. Carey had been driving west. She was the only person in the vehicle. No other vehicles were involved in the crash, which closed Faculty Road for 1½ hours. Ms. Carey suffered a head injury, for which she was treated at Capital Health System at Fuld, in Trenton. She was released on the 7th.

Borough Council Remains Divided On New Garage in Business District

The question of whether the proposed expanded to build a garage in the library. Both the library board and the Regional Planning Board have called for a garage to be built.

It was more than a year ago, at the January 1999 Borough reorganization meeting, that Mayor Reed proposed the construction of a three- to four-deck parking structure, including a belowground level, at the library/park and shop lot.

At a Council meeting in October, Council members Roger Martindell, David Goldfarb and Bill Slover were decidedly cool to the idea. Ryan Stark Lillienthal and Wendy Benchley were more supportive, while Mildred Trotman said her mind was open.

Not Enough Votes
If the vote on whether to build a garage were to be taken today, it would likely come out 3-3. Three "yes" votes are not enough to permit the Borough to move forward because four votes are required in order to bond money for construction. If a private developer were to step in and build the garage, Borough bonding would not be necessary. But there would be other problems.

At least four developers have talked to Mayor Reed about constructing a garage in the CBD, but the Mayor said he has to be very careful for several reasons. If the Borough were to be the builder, it would involve the Township in both financing and revenues, said the Mayor, but the Township's participation if a developer were called in might be problematic.

Another requirement of the Mayor's would be that the Borough maintain control over the parking fee structure. Mayor Reed noted ruefully that this requirement was not included in approvals given to the Palmer Square garages.

Pointing to the apparent lack of a 4-vote majority on Council, Mr. Martindell urged that alternatives to a CBD garage be sought. "This is a de facto decision," he said. "Three members of Council are not for building a garage in the Central Business District, at least not in the foreseeable future."

He asserted that the garage was a dead issue since it requires 4 votes of Council. "Each of the three of us made very strong statements against a garage in the CBD in the fall. Since then there has been an evident effort by various groups to create such a garage. While I respect these views, they have a long way to go to convince Council. I am committed to finding more parking, but I am not in favor of a garage in the CBD," he said.

Borough Council

One of Mr. Martindell's alternative suggestions was having the Borough build a garage in a location outside the Central Business District.

In that same October Council meeting, Harry Levine, president of the library's board of trustees, told Council that, unless it gave the library a solution to solve the problem of parking, a bigger library could not be built.

The Hillier Group is scheduled to make an initial presentation of library expansion concepts to the library board of trustees on January 25. The presentation is expected to touch on parking issues.

In his timetable, Mayor Reed suggested the January 25 Council meeting be the forum for a public presentation and discussion of the CBD parking study report currently being prepared by Borough Engineer Carl Peters. Included in the report will be the results of studies addressing parking and other downtown issues done in past years.

The Borough foresees increased parking needs in the Central Business District resulting not only from expansion of the library but also from the proposed doubling in size of the Arts Council. The six-story addition to the Nassau Inn, and the eventual completion of the Paul Robeson Place segment of the Palmer Square development, although served by the Palmer Square garages, still hold the possibility of adding to the parking crunch in the Borough's downtown.

Series on Science
Offered Saturdays
On Forrestal Campus

The annual Science on Saturday series will be offered at the U.S. Department of Energy's Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory beginning January 15.

This is a series of seven free lectures geared toward high school students, but open to everyone. The lectures are given by scientists and other professionals who are leaders in their fields. Started as a grass-roots effort 16 years ago at PPPL, Science on Saturday now attracts more than 300 people each Saturday.

This is the series schedule.
January 15, Prof. George Chaikin, Herbert Lehman College, City University of New York, "Art, Geometry and Thought: Computer Graphics and Artificial Intelligence"; January 22, no program; January 29, Jhane Barnes, president and designer, Jhane Barnes, Inc., "Mathematics and Art"; February 5, Prof. Suzanne Staggs, Department of Astrophysics, Princeton University, "The Oldest Photons in the Universe: Measuring Cosmic Fingerprints";

February 12, Benjamin Vigoda, Media Lab, M.I.T., "The Virtual Juggler"; February 19, Prof. Kenneth Laws, Department of Physics, Dickinson College, "Physics and the Dancer — a Fertile Dialogue"; February 26, no program; March 4, Prof. Robert Park, American Physical Society, "Voodoo Science: How Strange is the Universe?"; March 11, Laurel P. Goodell, Department of Geosciences, Princeton University, "New Frontiers in Plate Tectonics."

All lectures will be held at Princeton University's Plasma Physics Laboratory at the Forrestal Campus off Route 1 in Plainsboro. They begin at 9:30 a.m. and usually last about two hours. There is no fee.

Fund for Homeless Receives Donations Of More Than $6000

More than $6000 has been received by the Princeton Borough Homeless Housing Trust Fund, a fund formed at the end of 1999 to help the homeless in Princeton survive the winter by providing money to pay for housing.

Created by Princeton Borough, the fund was developed at the suggestion of the Princeton Clergy Association.

When the announcement of the fund appeared in TOWN TOPICS in the week before Christmas, the initial amount raised had reached $1788. In the three weeks since, $4286 has been contributed, with donations coming from individuals, corporations, and houses of worship. Borough Councilman Roger Martindell said he expects there will be additional contributions.

Most people believe there are now three homeless people living in downtown Princeton, although their number may change in a day. Over the years many have walked, and bedded down, in the streets of Princeton, only to one day disappear and never be seen again.

One woman, homeless for many months, is being helped to pay her rent with money donated to the Homeless Trust Fund. She could not do without this aid, since her monthly rent for a room in Princeton Borough exceeds her monthly social security check.

Because the $7500 she receives annually from social security is her only income,

White House Guests

On December 17, Hillsborough resident Jennifer Saar, left, and her sister Melissa were invited guests at the White House, where their artwork, "Rockingham's Transplantation," was on display in the Green Room. Jennifer, a museum technician at the Rockingham State Historic Site (an 18th-century farmstead at 108 County Road 518), and her sister, a fine arts major at the College of New Jersey, created a cement sculpture of the house — on a hill, with lots of tree roots showing beneath the ground — to illustrate its relocation. The relocation is one of 12 initiatives in New Jersey that have received recognition as an official project of "Save America's Treasures," a public-private partnership between the White House Millennium Council and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Plans call for Rockingham to be moved soon to new Laurel Avenue (Route 603) site, outside Kingston.

Mr. Martindell arranged for her to meet with county welfare officials in order to apply for food stamps. She was found eligible, and was awarded $10 a month in food stamps.

"If the homeless are housed, but they can't eat, we have to provide help to pay grocery bills so they don't starve to death," said Mr. Martindell.

As he did in December, Mr. Martindell stressed that the Borough must develop a long-term strategy for its homeless and for those similarly situated, "those who are virtually destitute and are falling between social services cracks."

Last month, the Rev. Kit Sherrill of Trinity Church said he planned to bring together a group of people in his church and members of the Princeton Clergy Association to begin a discussion of how to provide at least minimum housing for the homeless.

Assemblyman Begins His 3rd Term In State Assembly

Assembly Assistant Minority Leader, Reed Gusclora (D-Princeton), a resident of Nassau Street, has been sworn in for his third term in the State Assembly. He is the first Princeton resident to represent the Legislative District since the 1970's. Mr. Gusclora got his start in Princeton as an aide to the late Barbara Boggs Sigmund's gubernatorial campaign in 1989.

During the last legislative session, Mr. Gusclora was a member of the Assembly Transportation and State Government Committees. He also served on the Governor's Advisory Council on AIDS and the State Beach Erosion Commission.

Last year, Mr. Gusclora authored the "Paramount Safety" Law, which changed the legal standard in child custody cases to protect the health and well being of the child when there are charges of abuse. He also sponsored legislation giving the City of Trenton seed money to establish its downtown hotel.

In his four years in the legislature, Mr. Gusclora has become a leading proponent of environmental and campaign finance reform initiatives. He has sponsored bills to put strict limitations on campaign contributions and strengthen reporting methods at the Election Law Enforcement Commission (ELEC).

He earlier this year sponsored legislation to control development along the shore by closing the loopholes in the Coastal Area Facilities Review Act (CAFRA) and to allow municipalities to impose fees on developers.

"F" rating from the National Rifle Association (NRA).

Mr. Gusclora studied politics at the Catholic University of America in Washington D.C., where he worked his way through college as a staffer at the Library of Congress. He graduated in 1982 with a Bachelor's Degree in World Affairs and then worked on Capitol Hill in the Congressional Offices of U.S. Representatives Andy Ireland (D-Florida) and the late Mike Synar (D-Oklahoma).

Mr. Gusclora went on to attend Seton Hall Law School and earned his law degree in 1988. He currently practices employment and labor law in Lawrenceville.

Assemblyman Gusclora's District Office is located at 226 West State Street in Trenton. He can be reached at 292-0500 or by e-mail at AsmGusclora@njleg.state.nj.

Reed Gusclora

"I have come to develop an appreciation for the legislative process. Particularly with Impact fees, I realize the legislation needs to go a few rounds before it will become a reality," said Mr. Gusclora, noting that the Impact Fee bill was posted for the first time for Committee consideration in this last session.

Mr. Gusclora took on Gov. Whitman over his needle exchange initiative to control the spread of AIDS. He has also been an outspoken advocate of gun control, urging passage of "smart gun" technology, which earned him an

Bust of Inventor Finds a Home At the University

A retired third grade teacher from Ann Arbor, Michigan, has an unusual personal quest that he is fulfilling on behalf of his former students. John W. Wagner donates bronze busts of Nikola Tesla (1856-1943), the eccentric and underrated genius who invented the alternating current generator, to top-rated Universities that have electrical engineering departments.

The Department of Electrical Engineering in the School of Engineering and Applied Science at Princeton University is the most recent recipient.

"The project started as a way to stimulate interest in writing," Mr. Wagner said. "In the third grade, cursive writing is introduced and my students would research and write about Tesla."

Tesla was chosen as the "Class Hero" because much of the information published about him is incorrect, Mr. Wagner said. Successive classes of third graders would write to book publishers, editors, and researchers telling of Tesla's eminence in electrical science. They became experts on Tesla.

The students raised the money to pay for the materials used in the sculptures, which are then donated on their behalf by Mr. Wagner. The sculptures were cast by Michigan artist R. Farrington Sharp, the father of one of Mr. Wagner's former third graders.

The Tesla project began in the late 1980s and is ongoing. Reintroducing Tesla to the academic community has become somewhat of an avocation for Mr. Wagner.

"It's his personal quest to promote Tesla, who is somewhat of an underdog," said his wife Lois. Tesla was a contemporary of Thomas Edison and although the pair worked together, their opposing views on electricity eventually severed the relationship. Edison was a proponent of direct current, while alternating current was Tesla's choice.

INVENTOR IS HONORED: Steve Forrest, chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering at Princeton, center, accepts a bronze bust of Nikola Tesla from John W. and Lois Wagner.

It was Tesla's patents that George Westinghouse used in 1893 to light the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago. That led to Westinghouse gaining the contract to build the turbines at Niagara Falls, a move that ensured the triumph of alternating current over direct current.

"This was one of the most generous things I've ever been a part of," said Steve Forrest, chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering. "It is inspiring to see a teacher able to interest students in science so early on."

Princeton Township Police Force Adds 3 New Officers

Three new officers who reflect Princeton's diverse population — Melissa Martinez, Frederick Williams, and Christopher Morgan — have joined the Township police force.

They were sworn in at the Township Committee meeting on January 10, by former Township Police Commissioner Michele Tuck-Ponder. Their one-year probation period began on Tuesday, January 11.

All three are already certified police officers, according to Police Chief Anthony Gaylord. Mr. Williams and Ms. Martinez most recently worked on the New Jersey Transit Police force. "They were part of the police force's anti-crime units," according to Chief Gaylord, "and both of them worked the streets."

Ms. Martinez, a resident of Jersey City, is fluent in Spanish, Portuguese, and English, the chief indicated. She plans to move to Princeton as soon as she can find an appropriate place, he added.

Mr. Williams lives in Kendall Park with his family, including a toddler daughter, who enlivened the swearing-in ceremony when she followed him to the front of the Committee meeting room and insisted on helping her mother hold the Bible!

A resident of Hamilton, Mr. Morgan formerly worked for the Mercer County Sheriff's Department, where he was assigned to Mercer County Airport. His brother is a lieutenant with the Ewing Township Police, Chief Gaylord said, and "Chris wanted to get into law enforcement." His brother stood with Mr. Morgan during his swearing-in.

The three officers will work their shifts with field training officers until they are "up to speed," a process that can take up to 12 weeks. Already police officers, they must still learn about Princeton policies and procedures, as well as learn local streets.

"They may also have to re-qualify with our firearms," Chief Gaylord indicated. "They are probably not familiar with defibrillators, for example; and they may need to re-qualify with radar or breathalyzer equipment."

The three probationary officers were chosen from a large pool of applicants, the chief noted. The Township Police Department has been seeking new officers since August, he added.

Millstone Bypass Will Be Topic Of Public Forum

"The Millstone Bypass and the Alternatives" will be the topic of a public forum on Thursday, January 13, 7 p.m., at the Nassau Presbyterian Church, 61 Nassau Street. The forum, sponsored by the Sandra Starr Foundation, will provide critics and supporters of the bypass an opportunity to present their positions.

George Hawkins, the Executive Director of the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association, will present "An Environmental Assessment of the Millstone Bypass: Why Alternatives Should Be Considered." Dennis Keck, the Assistant Commissioner for Capitol Program Management at the New Jersey Department of Transportation, will present the department's view.

Following these two presentations, there will be a panel of public officials and citizens representing both sides of the issue.

Representing the critics will be Wendy Benchley, a member of the Princeton Borough Council, and Richard Barrett from the citizens group, Sensible Transportation Options Partnership (STOP).

Representing the supporters will be Aubrey Haines, President of the Princeton Area Chamber of Commerce, and Carole Carson, Mayor of West Windsor Township.

Paul Starr, president of the Foundation and professor of sociology at Princeton University, will introduce and moderate the discussion.

The Sandra Starr Foundation seeks to promote progressive community leadership in the Princeton-Mercer area. The event is free and

The Rev. Dr. Soaries to Speak At Martin Luther King Service

The Rev. Dr. DeForest B. Soaries Jr., Secretary of State of New Jersey and pastor of First Baptist Church of Lincoln Gardens in Somerset, will be the guest preacher at the Princeton University Chapel on Sunday, January 16, at 11 a.m. for the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Service of Recommitment. The special service is part of Princeton University's community-wide celebration of the life and work of Dr. King.

DeForest B. Soaries Jr.

As pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lincoln Gardens, Dr. Soaries maintains a regular Sunday preaching schedule and has added 3,500 new members to the church since 1990. Under his leadership, First Baptist has started construction of a new $10 million church complex, founded the First Baptist Community Development Corporation, Renaissance Community Development Credit Union, CDC Properties Housing Company, Renaissance Employment & Training Academy, and has developed several economic, spiritual and educational programs for church members and local residents.

As secretary of State, a role he assumed in January 1999, Dr. Soaries manages several agencies, including the New Jersey Martin Luther King Jr. Commission, and he advises Governor Christine Todd Whitman on issues of urban redevelopment and community development.

Internationally renowned as a speaker and author, Dr. Soaries is also an advocate for at-risk youth. He was invited by President Clinton and General Colin Powell to address the call for volunteerism and saving America's at-risk youth at the President's Summit for America's Future in Philadelphia. In 1997 he received the New Jersey Network "Partnership Award" honoring Our Children, Our Communities.

Dr. Soaries earned a B.A. from Fordham University in New York, and M.Div. from Princeton Theological Seminary, and a D.M. from United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. He has received honorary doctorate degrees from Drew University and Monmouth University.

Childcare is provided during the service for children under the age of 5 in Murray-Dodge Hall. Sunday School for children from the ages of 5 through 11 is also provided.

Nonprofit Group Aims to Break Down Society's Barriers

A new nonprofit organization, Nine Ether Inc., dedicated to promoting youth and community services in Princeton's John Witherspoon neighborhood, recently awarded its annual Dorothy B. Maynor "Entertainer of the Year" Award to William "Billy" Hill, lead singer of the Billy Hill Band. He was also named "Entertainer of the Decade."

Mr. Hill has had a long and distinguished professional career as a solo and group recording artist; his band performs at many local establishments.

The award is named for Harlem School of the Arts founder Dorothy B. Maynor, who lived in Princeton while attending Westminster Choir College. She went on to a distinguished professional career, which included performances at Carnegie Hall, European theaters, and at the White House.

The mission of Nine Ether, according to its founder Anthony Bailey, is to help prepare minorities — through social, cultural, and academic programs — to overcome barriers that may prevent them from participating fully in mainstream America.

The group plans to establish tutoring programs in English and in English as a second language; to explore alternative education options for children and adults; to organize workplace preparation programs; and to provide referrals to social agencies and programs that serve the minority community.

The term "Nine Ether" derives from an ancient Nubian (African) spiritual science, according to Mr. Bailey. "It teaches that you cannot eradicate the problems and miserable conditions of people anywhere unless you have a solution that is workable everywhere," Mr. Bailey says.

Billy Hill

"Entertainer of the Decade"

The group will soon name and — as family needs recipients of its Paul B. changed — it added pro-Robeson Awards for Excellence and will hold a Yearling parents.

2000 membership drive. In both instances, Mr. Bailey says, the group will "reach out and connect to the John Witherspoon community members."

U-League Nursery School To Hold Open House

The University League Nursery School, 171 Broadmead, will hold an Open House on January 22, from 10 until noon. The event will be an opportunity for parents to learn about the nursery school, meet with teachers, and tour the facility. The school offers programs for children from 2½ to 4 years of age. Morning nursery school, extended-day, and all-day, child-care programs are available.

The school was founded in 1949 by a group of Princeton University families. It began as a traditional morning cooperative nursery school,

The nursery school curriculum is play-centered. Social and emotional development are of primary importance; and the program is designed to help children learn to play cooperatively with one another, and to develop sustained relationships with adults outside the family.

The school accepts applications for the following school year, beginning at its September Open House and throughout the year.

Hospital Staff Cuts

New Jersey hospitals are cutting staff to cope with mounting deficits. The NJ Hospital Association estimates that about 1,000 jobs have been cut by the state's hospitals in the past 18 months.

Part of the revenue problem experienced during the last two years is attributable to inadequate reimbursement from the state for charity care, officials say. In addition, declining Medicaid payments and pressure from managed-care insurance companies to hold down costs have contributed to the problem.

Fingerprint Check

Troopers equipped with hand-held scanners will soon be able to instantly check the fingerprints of drivers suspected of crimes against an FBI database. They will also be able to download mugshots and fingerprints from the FBI's National Crime Information Center computer system.

To date, 10 cruisers are equipped with the dashboard computer, with an additional 30 planned for installation by the end of the month. By the end of the year, one-third of all state police cruisers will be equipped with the new computer. Attorney General John Farmer Jr., has said, however, that the devices will not be used until the state has developed legal procedures for their use.

Privatization Encouraged

New Jersey Governor Christine Whitman said last week that she will veto a bill barring school boards and colleges from privatizing non-education jobs without first notifying their unions.

The governor said the bill put too many constraints on school and college boards trying to save taxpayer money or tuition costs. The bill would bar school districts from privatizing custodial, cafeteria and transportation services, for example, unless it first notified the unions representing workers who staff those services.

The governor's veto is supported by the New Jersey School Boards Association, but condemned by the New Jersey Education Association.

Tailpipe Test Shelved

Under an agreement reached last week with the Environmental Protection Agency, New Jersey's new emissions test for tailpipe pollutants can now be bypassed at motor vehicle inspection stations, if the waiting time exceeds 45 minutes. The old test will be done instead.

Governor Christine Whitman announced that the modified tests will be in place temporarily while the contractor installing a new, tougher testing system — Parsons Infrastructure — works to get it functioning as planned.

Since Parsons began operating the new test on December 13, some drivers have waited in lines for more than four hours due to computer malfunctions and other problems.

Raptors Return

The New Jersey bald eagle population, nearly obliterated by the pesticide DDT, is on the rise again, according to a report from the state Division of Fish and Wildlife.

From 1986 to 1998, eagle pairs increased from one nest in Cumberland County to 15 pairs in the state. Last year, the population increased to 22 pairs, including 19 in southern New Jersey, rivaling the number of nesting eagles seen in New Jersey before World War II, when DDT came into popular use.

The eagle has been making a comeback since the pesticide was banned in the U.S. in 1972. In New Jersey, also, an eagle re-introduction program that began in the 1980's has assisted the comeback.

Legislators Give Selves Raise

On Monday, January 10, state legislators approved 40 percent pay raises for themselves, bringing their pay of $35,000 to $49,000. They voted, as well, for double-digit pay increases for a number of the state's most powerful public officials.

The measure passed with 21 votes in the Senate; in the Assembly it passed with 48 votes, seven more than necessary.

Governor Christine Whitman has until noon on January 18 to sign the measure into law. The raise, expected to cost the state about $15 million, would not take effect until January 2002, because the state constitution requires lawmakers to face re-election before receiving a raise they have voted for themselves.

Early Retirement Bill

Both houses of the state Legislature approved a bill this week that would permit local police officers and paid firefighters to retire after 20 years with pensions equal to half their salaries. The bill would also increase disability benefits and benefits for surviving spouses under the Police and Firemen's Retirement System, making those payments match benefits already provided for the New Jersey State Police.

Governor Christine Whitman has asked the state treasurer and members of her staff to meet with the police union in order to resolve a dispute over how much the bill would cost the state. She will not decide whether to sign the bill until after the meeting, a spokesman said. The treasurer had previously estimated the cost at $52 million.

from Princeton's kitchens

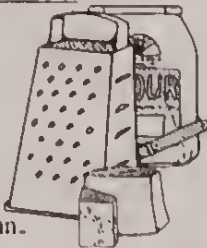

Maureen Quirk,

trustee at Princeton Charter School, was given a cheese shortbread recipe by an old English friend. She has adapted a shortbread recipe to recreate this melt-in-your-mouth savory treat.

These nibble-sized shortbread rounds are always popular at parties and school events, since they are a treat without being sweet. The dough keeps in refrigerator for a while, so you can quickly slice and bake some fresh for a party.

Cheese Shortbread Rounds

- 2 cups flour
- 1/4 tsp (scant) cayenne pepper
- 1/4 tsp baking powder
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 2 tbsps cornstarch
- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup margarine or shortening
- 1/2 to 3/4 cup grated cheddar and Parmesan.

Mix all the dry ingredients together, combine with the butter and shortening, then add the grated cheese. For a sharper cheese taste, use a larger proportion of Parmesan. Form the dough into three balls and roll each ball into a cylinder about 1 to 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper and refrigerate for a few hours until the roll is firm enough to slice. When ready to bake, slice a roll into 3/16 inch wide slices, lay on a baking sheet, and bake at 350 degrees for 9 to 10 minutes.

CLOSED TO BOROUGH USERS: Township Committee has voted to exclude Borough residents and businesses from using the recycling shed at the Princeton Shopping Center, where Township employee Robert Clynes is the attendant.

Recycling Shed

proposition for the Township."

Public Works has also assessed the cost of running the recycling operation. According to Mr. Kiser, the Township realizes about $6,000 from the sale of recyclables. An additional $40,000 in operational expenses, however, is required.

Mayor Phyllis Marchand pointed out that — in addition to being a convenient service — the shed is also "environmentally healthy." It is heavily used by merchants, as well as residents, she said.

"I believe the Borough merchants use it to dispose of cardboard," she added. "The Borough governing body has said it does not want to participate. The question is, do we want to be magnanimous and let the Borough merchants continue [to use the shed]?"

Committeewoman Roslyn Denard suggested that Township Committee "take the initiative and ask the Downtown Borough Merchants Association to lobby the Borough to support the shed."

"The situation is not fair to Township residents or staff members," Mayor Marchand insisted. "If Borough merchants wish to have recycling privileges, the Borough has to provide support."

Newly-sworn Committee member William Enslin asked whether the Township would be required to pay less overtime if use of the shed were restricted to the Township.

[Robert Clynes, the attendant at the shed, is there every day of the week, including Saturday and several hours on Sunday. He is paid for overtime hours.]

"There would not be less overtime," Mr. Kiser responded, "but the Township would save on the cost of transporting recyclable materials to market."

Committeeman Steven Frakt noted that the savings was probably of minimal importance, but the principle of shared costs and services was not.

"It is disheartening to hear that recycling costs are not seen by the Borough as something that should be shared — even in a token way," Mr. Frakt repeated. "I am concerned about what the refusal says in terms of joint actions in other areas."

[The Township and Borough jointly support a number of programs, including those of the Princeton Public Library, the planning board, and the human services commission.]

Mr. Frakt suggested that the Committee formally notify Borough Council that the shed was to be restricted to Township taxpayers, and that a separate letter containing the same information be directed to the downtown merchants' group.

He also raised the question of enforcement, suggesting that the Township would have to issue some kind of credentials to residents, because checking everyone who entered the premises would prove much too "unwieldy."

River Road Ash Trees

During the Committee's work session, members also heard an update from Mr. Kiser on the Elizabethtown Water Company's plans to lay a new water main along the western side of River Road.

Last month, the project drew heated protest from the Township Shade Tree Commission and the Regional Environmental Commission because 72 ash trees would be destroyed, according to the original plan.

The pipeline is scheduled to be laid from the Montgomery Township line south to the Princeton Church of Christ, which is about 500 feet south of the intersection with Herrontown Road.

Elizabethtown officials want the main to be operational by next summer when the risk of a drop in water pressure is at its highest.

Designed to fortify the distribution system in Princeton Township, the main will also provide enhanced service to the municipalities of West Windsor and Monroe Township.

Mr. Kiser noted that the county, which has jurisdiction over the roadway (Route 605) has been persuaded to permit pipe installation under the center of the road, from the Montgomery Township line south to the Stony Brook sewerage treatment plant, saving the ash trees to the west in that section.

At the treatment plant, he indicated, there are sewer mains, a gas line, and another water main in the center of the road; which leaves no room for any additional piping. There is no alternative but to stick to the water company's original plan at that point.

Elizabethtown has agreed to apply to the Department of Environmental Protection for permission to lay pipe through wetlands on the eastern side of the road, starting a few feet beyond the sewerage plant.

Mr. Kiser suggested that the company begin laying pipe under the center of the road, up to the treatment plant, while at the same time applying for permits that would allow it to go into the wetlands on the eastern side, starting just beyond the plant.

Committee approved the proposal, as well as Elizabethtown's plan to work at night — from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. — to alleviate traffic disturbance as much as possible.

If DEP permission is denied, Mr. Kiser said, another meeting will be convened to decide how to proceed.

Focus on the Library

Also, during the work session, Library Director Leslie Burger asked Committee members to name some of the features they would like to see in a new library.

Steering clear of the issues of parking and a high rise garage, she explained that since the end of October she has conducted a series of "focus groups," in which she sought information from the community that might be helpful to the Hillier Group architects.

Within the next four weeks, she said the architects will present design options for "the first 21st Century library in the area."

Mayor Marchand commented that over the past 15 years Princeton has become a community of "extraordinary diversity," both in age and in population. She urged that the library staffing and its book collection reflect diversity.

Mr. Enslin recommended that the library invest in "expanded technology;" and Ms. Denard suggested that it also expand its courses on computer and Internet use.

What should the library include to "really amaze people who walk through the door?" Ms. Burger prompted. As an example, she reported the comment of a 10-year-old who told her that children who come to the library after school are sometimes hungry and need a place where they can have snacks.

Ms. Burger has added a "snackroom," she said, for five children at a time, between 3:30 and 4, where they can have something to eat.

Mayor Marchand said she thought a coffee shop and a gift shop at the library were great ideas. Gift shop sales, she pointed out, could raise funds for the library. She also declared that great windows letting in natural light, and comfortable reading areas should be high on the list, as should a large outdoor area where patrons could sit and read in good weather.

"The children's section ought to be bright and welcoming," noted Ms. Denard. Mr. Enslin pointed out that "areas where people can gather to share ideas" are important.

Ms. Burger urged Committee members — and others — to contact her with other suggestions.

PRINCETON ADULT SCHOOL SPRING 2000

Spring Lecture Series

VIEW FROM THE BRIDGE THE ANNE B. SNEPNER LECTURE SERIES

We are bridging two centuries, & from this vantage point eight scholars are going to reflect on some of the most powerful ideas and dramatic changes that have shaped the past 100 years. They will examine the impact of these ideas and speculate about the important questions for the new century. A particular problem in each field will be used to provide a unique perspective on both the past & the future.

Litterbug Charged With Drunk Driving After Traffic Stop

After being pulled over on University Place at 12:44 a.m. on January 9 for, police say, driving a truck with a broken light and no muffler, and throwing debris out of the truck, James M. Boyle Jr., 18, of Newtown, Pa. was arrested for driving while intoxicated. He was released on $250 bail, and is due in Borough court on January 24.

Teen Trouble

Police arrested a 14-year-old from Maryland who, according to reports, used a stick to break windows in a parking garage on Nassau Street around 5:15 p.m. on January 7. Three teens who were with the alleged culprit at the time were also arrested. One of those teens, age 14, was from Princeton. One, 14, hails from Lawrenceville. Another, 15, is from New Hope, Pa. All four teens attend the Hun School. All but the 15-year-old were male.

Two 14-year-olds, both male and from Princeton, were charged with juvenile delinquency for, police said, breaking driveway lamps at a home on Hodge Road at 3:21 p.m. on January 7. The teens were later released to their parents.

Pot Stop

Police said they pulled over Candyce M. Lenart, 26, of Trenton, for driving with a suspended license on Chambers Street near Hulfish Street at 5:25 p.m. on January 4. After finding marijuana on Lenart, the officer on the stop arrested her, according to reports. Police later released Lenart with a January 17 court date.

Goose Liver Lifted

Somebody entered Harriette's Restaurant, on Wither- spoon Street, while it was closed between 2 p.m. January 6 and 12 p.m. January 7 and stole kitchen equipment and a loaf of goose liver paté. Police valued the missing items at $1198 combined.

At Large

A burglar broke a window, entered a Walnut Lane home, and stole jewelry, cash, and a VCR between 3 and 9:15 p.m. on January 8.

Somebody stole a purse, cash, and sunglasses from a locker at Princeton High between 3 and 5:30 p.m. on January 5. Police valued the missing items at $240.

A locked 18-speed girls' bicycle disappeared from in front of Forbes College, on Princeton University's campus, between December 17 and January 3. Police valued the missing bicycle at $200.

Somebody stole an ethernet computer cable — valued at $144 — from a dorm room in Little Hall, on Princeton University's campus, between noon December 17 and 10 a.m. January 5.

Pharmacy Technician Course to Start at MCCC

In just 18 sessions, participants in Mercer County Community College's Pharmacy Technician program are ready for entry level work in the pharmacy field.

This noncredit certificate program will be offered on Wednesdays, January 19 through May 17 from 6 to 10 p.m. on Mercer's West Windsor campus, 1200 Old Trenton Road.

Upon successful completion, participants will be ready for work in retail, hospital, and home infusion pharmacies. They will also be prepared to take the voluntary national pharmacy technician certification exam.

The curriculum includes dosage calculations, product recognition, drug distribution systems, and medical terminology. Also covered are identification of drugs by generic and brand names, names of selected drugs and their indications, route of administration, and side effects.

The responsibilities of the pharmacy technician under state and federal law are also discussed. Tuition and fees total $849; textbooks required. The course has been approved for 7.2 CEUs.

For information, contact Dr. Yvonne Chang, 586-4800, ext. 3278, or e-mail comed@mccc.edu.

SWEARING-IN: Newly-elected Township Committee member William Enslin, absent from the Township reorganization meeting on January 2, was sworn in on January 10, to begin serving his first three-year term on the Committee. Southern Writers Will Be Discussed At Arts Council Princeton resident Ann Waldron is the next speaker in the Arts Council of Princeton's 1999-2000 literary series, which examines publishing and literature over the past century and into the next. On Thursday, January 20, at 8 p.m., Ms. Waldron will read from her most recent biography, Eudora: A Writer's Life, about the southern author Eudora Welty. First published by Doubleday in 1998, the book has just been released in paperback.

Ann Waldron

An Alabama native, Ms. Waldron is also the author of two other biographies of southern writers, Close Connections: Caroline Gordon and the Southern Renaissance (1987) and Hodding Carter: The Reconstruction of a Racist (1983).

In addition, she is the author of nine books for children and has been a columnist, reporter, and book review editor for numerous publications, including the Houston Chronicle and the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Joining Ms. Waldron on January 20 will be Joan Williams, a southern writer whose first novel, The Morning and the Evening (1961), earned her a prestigious award from the National Institute of Arts and Letters. A significant figure in the New York literary world in the 1950s and 1960s, Ms. Williams was a protégé of William Faulkner. One of her novels, The Wintering, is a fictional account of her long relationship with Faulkner.

Ms. Williams, who was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1984, has taught creative writing at colleges in Connecticut and Tennessee. Her other works of fiction include Old Powder Man, Pay the Piper, and Pariah and Other Stories.

On Sunday, February 6, at 11:30 a.m., the Arts Council will present "Biography and Brunch," the first in a new series of programs that presents fiction and nonfiction authors discussing their works while audience members enjoy bagels and coffee. Joseph Blotner, scholar and biographer, kicks off the series by continuing the focus on southern writers as he discusses the subjects of two of his biographies, Faulkner: A Biography (1974, reissued in paperback in 1991) and Robert Penn Warren: A Biography (1997).

Mr. Blotner, also a Guggenheim Fellow, as well as a Fulbright Lecturer in American Literature, has lectured extensively on American literature and particularly on the work of Faulkner. Other works include The Fiction of J.D. Salinger and The Modern American Political Novel: 1900-1960.

Both programs take place at the Arts Council, 102 Witherspoon Street. There is a suggested donation of $5 ($3 for students and senior citizens) for the evening program and a charge of $5 for the brunch. For more information, call 924-8777.

Council Will Not Vote for Parking Garage; Time to Find Alternatives for CBD Parking

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Since last October half of the members of Borough Council have stated publicly what some in the community have chosen to ignore: there are not the four votes on Council required to authorize the financing of a municipal parking garage in the Borough's Central Business District (CBD).

Some, not liking the message, would shoot the messengers. Others would deny the reality, suggesting that Mayor and Council were somehow required to vote on the matter. Still others would scramble for the exit, declaring the Council in "deadlock" and all projects in the central business district "dead." Hey, let's get a grip!

Those interested in building a municipally financed parking garage in the CBD have three principal choices: (1) wait at least one year until the Council make-up changes, (2) find a fourth vote on the present Council, or (3) develop alternatives to such a garage.

The last alternative seems the most productive. Indeed, speaking for myself only, I could support a municipally financed parking garage in locations outside the CBD. I could support such a garage in the CBD if I were convinced that meaningful alternatives to a garage were being developed for implementation before breaking ground on a garage.

But, intuitively, I doubt a municipally financed parking garage in the CBD is the only or best way to cure the perceived dearth of parking in downtown Princeton.

Since I have heard about no plans to deal with the perceived lack of parking in downtown Princeton except by building a municipally financed garage there, I have joined with two of my Council colleagues in stating my conditional opposition to such a structure.

So, to those who were discomfited by recognizing for the first time a political reality that has existed for at least three months: they might choose not to waste time excoriating the messenger, denying reality, or taking their marbles and going home.

Instead, they might devote their substantial energies and talents to joining in the exploration of meaningful alternatives to a municipally financed garage in the CBD. That's the best way to go about getting the garage they say they so desperately need.

Assuming this challenge is accepted, clearly it is premature to declare the Council in "deadlock" and all projects in the CBD "dead."

CCRC Ordinance Should Be Revised To Ensure Quality Senior Housing

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Senior housing and good planning can be accomplished. The current polarization developing over the Regent's Mead CCRC project at The Great Road and Drakes Corner is unwarranted, and intentionally diverts attention from the real need to revise the CCRC ordinance to ensure quality senior housing, consistent with the planning and environmental goals of the Township.

We are not opposed to seniors, senior housing, or a CCRC facility at Our Lady of Princeton. We are opposed to Regent's Mead. Regent's Mead, at 630,000 square feet is grossly excessive, forcing unimaginable damage to the earth, the landscape, The Great Road and the neighborhood.

The Site Plan Review Advisory Board (SPRAB) agreed unanimously and recommended that the application be rejected. The Planning Board confirmed that Regent's Mead exceeded the permitted Floor Area density four-fold. Just as significantly, if built, Regent's Mead would have been a poor choice for our seniors: massive four-story buildings over 1,000 feet along the ridge; hundreds of feet of corridors; units with but one window exposure; steep slopes throughout — in short, overstuffed barracks, unsuitable for our seniors.

Our seniors deserve better; our Township deserves better; and, the environmentally sensitive Princeton Ridge deserves better. We urge our seniors to view this project with a critical eye. Do not be misled by the developer's slick advertising and promotion, and playing the "age card."

And, for the record, contrary to the writings of some, we have not bullied anyone; and, we are working with Township officials to develop an ordinance which meets the needs of seniors and the community. On the other hand, despite repeated requests to meet to develop a sensible plan, Regent's Mead has remained immovable and uncompromising on critical issues of density and scale. Now, Regent's Mead has filed a lawsuit against the Planning Board.

The Zoning Amendment Review Committee currently is reviewing the CCRC ordinance. This is an important step toward clarity and consistency in our ordinances to ensure quality senior housing that conforms to sound planning principles. This review should not be prejudiced by uncalled for labels of either pro or anti seniors. We will not accept such rhetoric — we support quality senior housing; we just oppose Regent's Mead as planned.

Regent's Mead in Its Current Form Is Insensitive to a Splendid Site

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Letters in your December 12 and January 5 editions oversimplify and thereby impugn the motives of those opposed to the Regent's Mead development plans. It is true that we would like to see no further development at Our Lady of Princeton or any other in the Township, and for good reason.

A timely article by Laura Mansnerus in the New Jersey section of the December 26 edition of the New York Times details the physical ruination of this state, by far the most developed in the nation. The Sierra Club calculates that "at the rate at which New Jersey is being consumed, in 15 years there will be nothing left to save." Princeton hasn't been ruined, yet, but to many of us, seems well on the way. The ways of life that Princeton still manages to offer are one of the main reasons many senior citizens want to remain, but, if Princeton becomes indistinguishable from its surroundings, what incentive will there be?

Besides the issue of development, many of us object, not so much to a CCRC, admittedly an allowed use, and one for which we, too, see a compelling, and perhaps self-interested need. We object to the Regent's Mead project in its current form. Rapaciously insensitive to a splendid site, it is a huge, architecturally undistinguished warehouse for senior citizens, an outrageous fact given the fortune rumored necessary for buying into and being maintained there. Frankly, I'm amazed that anyone who has bothered to look carefully at the proposal would consider living at Regent's Mead.

Regent's Mead Has Made No Mention Of Who Will Run Its 'For Profit' CCRC

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a senior citizen and a neighbor of the Regent's Mead CCRC project on the Great Road, I would like to say what I think should be the objection of the whole community to this specific application.

We, the neighbors, are definitely not opposed to a CCRC on this land. Half of us are senior citizens who would love nothing more than to be able to move next door, assured that we could live out our lives in pleasant, familiar surroundings, at a reasonable expense, and be taken care of by people with experience and a good reputation in the CCRC business. I went to an early Regent's Mead focus meeting for potential applicants with these hopes in mind.

The meeting was conducted by a smooth PR man who spent half the session egging everyone on to come up with everything they could dream of for the ideal retirement community. Then presto, on a blackboard, "You see we have it all": banks, spas, beauty parlors, travel agency, gamerooms, etc., etc. No mention of who is going to operate this CCRC. The builders are planning to sell it to someone else to operate and they still have not indicated who this will be. I would think the first thing you need to ask when signing up for a CCRC is "Have these people experience running such communities and what is their reputation?"

The Sponsors and Management of Regent's Mead are by their own definition a "builder/developer team" — the Fruscione Co., which has done general construction and commercial real estate development, and the Costanza Contracting Co., that has done the same but also claims they "specialize in senior independent residential communities and health care facilities." Nowhere in the literature do they suggest who runs the facilities they have already built. Why is that? The answer that comes to mind isn't a comforting one.

The cost of these proposed apartments is very high. A two-bedroom is $625,000 with a monthly fee of $3,900; well above the evaluation of many houses in our neighborhood sitting on two acres of land. Neither of these fees covers any future medical needs. If a resident requires medical care or is moved to the Assisted Living Section, or the Nursing Care Section of the facility, he or she pays on a pay-for-service basis. There is no guarantee that medical costs will not get out of hand before your death, which is a great worry for most people — even Princeton people.

Unfortunately, the Regent's Mead CCRC will operate as a for-profit Corporation. Prestigious CCRCs are almost always non-profit corporations under the tax laws, with a Board of Trustees comprised largely of CCRC home-owners.

I think this is a superficially "up scale" project which the community would be paying for at a severe cost and I think it would be a bad deal for the senior citizens involved as well. I urge everyone to examine it much more closely. The degree to which it is butchering this piece of land by cutting and filling two-thirds of the site, has been addressed forcefully by the Site Review Committee, the Township engineer, and just about everyone who has looked carefully at the plans. The developers have deviously found ways of subverting the intent of the Township ordinance for CCRCs to a degree that proceeding with this development would set a very bad precedent for future development. One example — a massive building will tower 75 feet above the present ground level — even though the ordinance allows only 45 feet above ground level. The developers want to get around this ruling by building retaining walls and enormous mounds of dirt up against the building so what is left exposed above the mound will measure the required 45 feet. At the building density they propose, the neighborhood as well as the 43 acres of land would be spoiled for everyone involved and Princeton would be losing the opportunity of putting an appropriate CCRC on this land. One that could guarantee experienced care and a lid on medical expenses for Princeton's senior citizens, not just what amounts to glitzy luxury living for millionaires and a killing for the developers.

Decisions Like Library Expansion Can't Wait for All Possible Inputs

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Business decisions very often require that action be taken without benefit of all the possible inputs. And the more important the business decision the more likely it is that the decision will depend as much on intuition or unsupported judgment as much as on the facts available.

Given what appears to many interested observers in both Borough and Township to be an unusually long delay in reaching conclusions to proceed with both the library expansion and an apparently broadly endorsed parking garage close at hand to the library, are we depending too much on support from surveys and analyses and not enough on our inherent belief in what will be best for both the Princetons?

Millennium Capers Squandered Chance To Contemplate Mankind's Past, Future

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The dances of scantily clad females, the drumbeating and pole thumping of gyrating young men, as viewed on TV, would have been at home among the pagans of 2,000 years past.

Where was the evidence of the "ascent of man" through these two thousand years? The transcendence of religious dogma and the beginnings of scientific inquiry? The martyrdom of Bruno in this cause? The struggles and eventual triumph of Copernicus, Kepler and Galileo? The Magna Carta? The decline of serfdom and the splendor of the Renaissance? The abolition of slavery? The greatness of Newton, Maxwell and Einstein? The progress in understanding the human psyche and the dissemination of these insights to the population at large? Universal education, the improvement of the condition of the working man and woman?

And where among all these trivia was serious consideration given to the problems facing mankind today: overpopulation, poverty and illiteracy on a global scale, maldistribution of income and the triumph of greed in the economic domain, the savaging of our world's natural resources? Where was the call to all of us to gain the deeper understanding through education so as to find solutions to the looming threats to life on this earth? We heard nothing but shallow babble and slogans from the world's leaders. These testified to a total lack of respect for the ordinary citizen's intelligence and potential to "think different" so as to be an informed participant in the desperately needed transformation of society, ourselves, and our leaders.

Autoharp Virtuoso Bryan Bowers Will Perform Here

Autoharp virtuoso Bryan Bowers will present an evening of music at 8 p.m. Friday, January 21, at Christ Congregation Church, 50 Walnut Lane. The event is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

For nearly three decades, Mr. Bowers has been to the autoharp what Earl Scruggs was to the five-string banjo. He has originated his own unique style of playing the instrument. His performances convey instrumental mastery combined with warmth, finger right-hand technique that sustains rhythm, melody, and three interwoven harmony lines.

The Washington Times wrote, "...This man makes more music from an autoharp than you can imagine from a 12-string guitar and a harpsichord combined. He has more stage presence and charisma than any stage performer in recent memory."

Mr. Bowers travels widely; his current tour will carry him close to all four borders of the United States. He has recorded four albums and an instructional video tape. In 1993, Mr. Bowers was inducted into the Autoharp Hall of Fame, to stand with Maybelle Carter, Kilby Snow, and Sara Carter.

eloquence, expression, and professionalism.

The autoharp is a medium sized zither-like instrument, usually with 36 strings. It is fitted with a number of felt-padded bars that dampen selected strings and allow the player to automatically obtain pre-set chords. It was originally designed simply to be strummed, to produce chords to accompany a vocalist or another instrumentalist. Mr. Bowers, however, gradually created his own style, a five-

War Memorial Play About School Violence Stars Young Actors

Three students from Princeton High School and one from Princeton Day School are part of a cast of young local actors on stage this month in a play about school violence.

Passage Theatre Company is producing William Mastrosimone's play, Bang, Bong, You're Dead, for three performances at the Trenton War Memorial January 19 and 20. The play is targeted toward families of high school students, and addresses the epidemic of youth violence sweeping the nation's schools.

Bong, Bang, You're Dead will be performed entirely by students from Mercer County schools. It focuses on the lasting, irrevocable consequences of violence, and takes place in the mind of the fictional shooter Josh, responsible for the death of five schoolmates.

PHS student Brian Clopp plays the character of Josh. Max Sugiura and Jamie Lubell of PHS and Allegra Asplundh-Smith of PDS play his deceased friends.

A panel discussion will follow each performance, enabling audience members to share reactions to the piece. Panel members will include Mr. Mastrosimone and student cast members; Beverly Ann Smith, crisis intervention counselor for the Trenton Board of Education; Sheridan Quarless, director of the Martin Luther King Commission; Michael Rockland, professor and chair of the American Studies Department at Rutgers University and Hinda Winawer and Norbert Wetzol, family counselors from Princeton.

Mr. Mastrosimone, a critically acclaimed playwright and Trenton native, based his play on school shootings in Kentucky, Arkansas and Oregon prior to last year's tragedy at Columbine High School in Colorado. Bang, Bong, You're Dead was written specifically for high school students to perform for other high schoolers in auditoriums, basements, community halls, garages and houses of worship throughout the entire country.

Intended as a tool for prevention and intervention, Mr. Mastrosimone has stated that he does not want any royalties from these productions, and he has posted it on the Internet at www.bangbang-youredead.com, so that students may download and perform it for audiences free of charge.

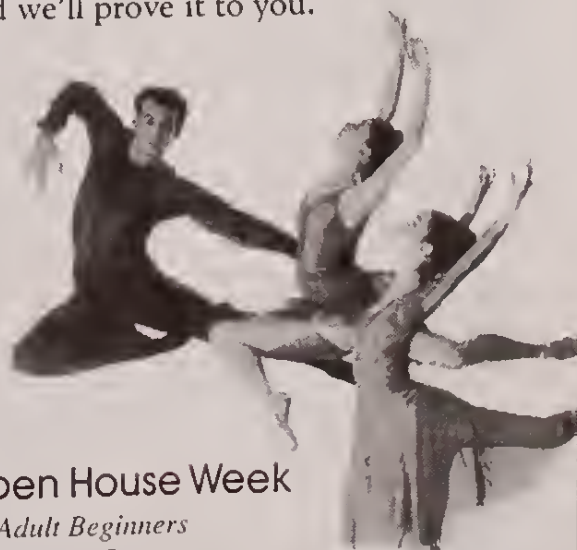

Two daytime performances are scheduled for area schools, both at 10 a.m. on January 19 and 20. There will also be an 8 p.m. performance on the 19th as part of the Martin Luther King Junior Commission's annual commemorative event.

All performances will be in the Ballroom of The Trenton War Memorial. Performances are free, but reservations are necessary. Call Passage Theatre Company, 392-0766.

Three Master Classes For Adults Offered at McCarter

McCarter Theatre is offering three Master Classes in playwriting, acting, and stage managing. The first Master Class, "Putting the Production Together: A Stage Manager's Point of View" will meet on Thursday, January 13, and will be followed by "Advanced Acting: Meisner Method" on Monday, January 17. This three-part series concludes with "Improvisation: A Safe Approach to High Risk, Originality and Teamwork" on Monday, February 7.

"Putting the Production Together: A Stage Manager's Point of View," a three-hour master class with McCarter Theatre's Resident Stage Manager, Cheryl Mintz, will be held Thursday, January 13 from 7 to 10 p.m. Participants will get an introduction to the steps involved in putting a theatrical production together.

The class begins with the pre-production period, discusses the rehearsal and "tech" process, and how a production is brought up to opening night. Discussions will include the role of a production stage manager in the collaborative process, how a show is "called," maintaining or remounting a production, and the "business" of theatrical and opera stage management.

Cheryl Mintz has been with McCarter Theatre, where she has been the production stage manager for more than 25 productions, for nine seasons. Ms. Mintz spent five seasons with the New York City Opera, where she stage managed 40 operas and musicals, three tours, and three PBS telecasts.

"Advanced Acting: Meisner Method," taught by Richard P. Gang, is a three-hour workshop that will meet on Monday, January 17 from 7 to 10 p.m. The class will include a brief historical perspective on method acting in America, and will then focus on an introduction to the technique developed and introduced by Sanford Meisner, a member of the Group Theatre in the 1930's.

Participants will be introduced to the beginning phases of the Meisner technique. They will be able to work with Meisner's Repetition Exercise and experience the method firsthand.

Mr. Gang is currently starring as "The Boy's Father" in the Original Off-Broadway Production of The Fontoticks. A graduate of the Rutgers University Professional Actor's Training Program, he won the Drama-Logue award for his portrayal of Merlin in Merlin (Or the Borren Lond) at the California Repertory Company. Mr. Gang teaches acting, voice and speech as well as theater history at Rutgers University.

"Improvisation, a Safe Approach to High Risk, Originality, and Teamwork" is a three-hour master class that will be held on Monday, February 7 from 7 to 10 p.m. Instructor Dan Diggles will demonstrate that excellent improv is safer and easier than one might imagine. Mr. Diggles will teach the three rules associated with improvisation.

Mr. Diggles is a co-founder of FreeStyle Repertory Theatre, New York's foremost improvisational theater company.

To register or for more information, call the McCarter Theatre Education Department at 258-6510.

YOUNG VIRTUOSI: Princeton High School sophomores Alessandra Schneider and Sara Wolfe recently performed as principal players with the New Jersey Youth Symphony at the John Harms Theatre in Englewood. Ms. Schneider was concert master and Ms. Wolfe was the principal cellist. Both young women are alumnae of the Waldorf School.

Recital on January 16 Is Part of Faculty Series

Soprano Nancy Froyland Hoerl and pianist J.J. Penna will perform in recital Sunday, January 16, in Bristol Chapel on the campus of Westminster Choir College. Accompanying Ms. Hoerl will be guest artist Barbara Govatos, first violin with The Philadelphia Orchestra.

The program will include Sept Chansons de Clément Morot, opus 15, by Georges Enesco; Despite and Still by American composer Samuel Barber; Along the Fields by Ralph Vaughn Williams, for solo violin and soprano; and selections by Hugo Wolf.

A member of the faculty at both Westminster Choir College and its community music school, Westminster Conservatory, Ms. Hoerl has performed in Europe, the United States and the United Kingdom. She created the lead role of Gabi in Der Krach im Ofen, which premiered at Austria's Theater an der Wien.

Active as a chamber musician, she was a founding member of the award-winning Grand Chamber Players of Wilmington, Del. A champion of American music, she has performed in genres ranging from backup vocals for jazz trumpeter Art Farmer to premiering works by contemporary American composers, such as The Three Frograms written for her by Laurie Altman.

Also a member of Westminster's faculty, pianist J.J. Penna maintains an active schedule as collaborator with singers and instrumentalists in this country and abroad.

In the past season, Mr. Penna was heard at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., at Weill Hall and Merkin Recital Hall in New York City, at the Palacio de Bellas Artes in Mexico City, in Seiji Ozawa Hall at Tanglewood, and in Boston and Cleveland.

This performance is part of the Westminster Conservatory Faculty Recital Series.

Admission is $5. For information call 921-7104. For 24-hour concert information call 219-2001.

Pianist-Conductor Plays Dual Role At N.J. Symphony Concert Friday

As if conducting an orchestra and playing a solo concerto weren't hard enough on their own, some virtuosos attempt both — at the same time. On Friday evening at Richardson Auditorium, French pianist-turned-conductor Philippe Entremont led the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra in a concert featuring a Beethoven Concerto with Mr. Entremont himself as soloist. The result of this musical multi-tasking was not an unqualified triumph, but Mr. Entremont and the orchestra sparked together at many points during the program.

Mr. Entremont began in the conductor role, opening with Ravel's famous "Suite from Ma Mere L'Oye" (Mother Goose Suite). His interpretation was lush and unhurried. The string melodies in the Pavane of the Sleeping Beauty were especially intoxicating — each note full without being forced, each melody rising and falling fluidly as if dictated by natural law, and the tempo broad and easy. The strings delighted again in the last movement, The Enchanted Garden, with perfectly blended harmonies and a stately, warm progression.

Mr. Entremont's "full-bodied" approach, quite successful with Ravel, was less magical in the next work, Haydn's Symphony No. 94, the Surprise symphony. The first and second movements sounded a bit too sedate, though Mr. Entremont's interest in melodies that sing was evident. He and the orchestra nicely brought out the contrasts between loud and soft sections without losing the continuity of line and tone.

The minuet in the Haydn symphony needed much more playfulness than Mr. Entremont's baton allowed it. Nowhere was this more evident than in the tiny solo transitions by the flute and the bassoon just before the return of the main minuet melody. These solos should be tossed off briskly like clever punch lines; Mr. Entremont presented them as ponderous assertions.

Haydn's sense of fun and laughter finally came shining through in the fourth movement, which was splendid. Mr. Entremont and the orchestra raced breathlessly through the fluttering sections, while singing sweetly on the softer, melodic passages. In the 94th symphony, as in others of Haydn's mature symphonies, the fourth movement embodies dazzling combinations of musical substance and emotional buoyancy, and Mr. Entremont and the orchestra could not have highlighted this alliance any more expertly.

Graceful Ornaments

After intermission, Mr. Entremont assumed his dual role in Beethoven's Piano Concert No. 1 in C Major (Op. 15). The first movement opened well, with the orchestra marching through tight, square rhythms. Mr. Entremont's piano flowed amiably when he took his entrance, all fluid scales and graceful ornaments. But there was a lack of consistent balance and smoothness when the music demanded more interaction between soloist and orchestra. A number of the piano passages sounded harsh, and the synchronization between piano and orchestra was occasionally ragged.

In the slow second movement, Mr. Entremont's expansive playing and clarinetist Karl Herman's poignant solo lines created very affecting opening and closing sections. In the final movement, Allegro, the conductor and performer again seemed to conflict. Mr. Entremont concentrated fully on the intricate piano part and at times seemed almost to forget about the conducting. As it turned out, little was lost. The orchestra needed no real guidance in this movement and responded as a fully empowered conversational partner with the piano. The rousing exchange took on a spirit similar to that of the last movement of the Haydn symphony, and the concert concluded with a very fine climax.

Russian Art Songs To Be Featured In Church Concert

Soprano Dorothy Emmerson will present "An Evening of Russian Art Songs" (Romansy) at Nassau at Six, a music and dinner series on Sunday, January 16 at Nassau Presbyterian Church. Pianist Elizabeth Rodgers will accompany her.

Similar to the German Lieder or French melodies, these Russian Art Songs are rarely heard in the U.S. because of the language barrier. All of the outstanding Russian composers, including Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff, worked in this form, setting verses of many of the greatest Russian and European poets to music.

Celebrated as this country's premier singer of Romansy, Ms. Emmerson's path to the Russian art song began when she lived and attended school in Moscow as the daughter of a diplomat. She brings to these soulful and intimate songs the impulse for clear and direct expression that characterizes the American theater, with which she is well acquainted.

Ms. Emmerson has appeared on Broadway with Dustin Hoffman and Maureen Stapleton, on television and in leading regional theaters across the country. Last year, she presented a program of Romansy and Broadway show tunes at the Red Chambers in Moscow.

Pianist Elizabeth Rodgers has earned critical acclaim for performances in her native New York City and tours across the United States, Europe and Puerto Rico. She performs with a number of groups including the Metropolitan Players, Long Island Chamber Ensemble, and Columbia Festival Orchestra.

The free concert begins at 6 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Following the concert, a dinner will be served in the church assembly room at a cost of $5 for adults and $2 for children. For dinner reservations and more information, call the church at 924-0103.

Child-care is available for parents who wish to attend the concert. Nassau Presbyterian Church is located at 61 Nassau Street.

Composers' Group Offers Concert Of New Works

The Composers' Ensemble at Princeton will present a concert of new works on Tuesday evening, January 18, at 8 p.m. in Taplin Auditorium in Fine Hall. The program includes new works by Princeton graduate students and faculty members in composition.

The program will begin with two works by graduate student Emily Doolittle: Ruby-Throated Moment for Solo Soprano, performed by Susan Lewis; night block bird song for Two Piccolos, Flute, and Three Percussionists, performed by Jayn Rosenfeld and Stefani Starin, piccolo and flute and percussionists Peter Jarvis, Gregory Beyer, and Tom Kolor.

Poems by graduate student Dániel Péter Biró will be performed by soprano Martha Elliott, violinist Anna Lim, clarinetist Evan Spritzer, and Mr. Biró, guitar. In 1999, Mr. Biró was awarded the Hungarian Government's Kodály Award for Hungarian Composers.

Professor of Music Peter Westergaard will be represented by a new work for solo vibraphone entitled Chaconne (s'ist mol bei mir so Sitte) composed for Peter Jarvis, co-director of the New Jersey Percussion Ensemble and executive director of the New Jersey Composers Guild.

1946: The Dow Jones hits 212.5, Bogey makes "The Big Sleep," and TOWN TOPICS begins publication.

About the work, Prof. Westergaard observes, "I always had a special fondness for the instrument — particularly once the motor was turned off — and had used it in combination with other instruments in various contexts, but it had never occurred to me to write a solo piece."

Graduate student Patricia Alessandrini offers a new work for solo piano entitled Five Colors of Silence, to be performed by Carol Wong. Ms. Alessandrini holds the B.M. in Composition from Queens College, and did graduate work there and at Columbia University.

A new work for eight-channel tape entitled Breath and the Mochine is by Paul Koonce, Assistant Professor of Composition at Princeton. He is the recipient of fellowships from the Guggenheim and McKnight Foundations.

The program concludes with graduate student Colby Leider's Tædet onimom meom for Two-channel Tape, which the composer describes as a "brief computer verset."

Co-sponsored by The Friends of Music at Princeton, the program is free.

17th Season For Opera Festival Is Announced

Opera Festival of New Jersey's 17th season will include productions of Bizet's Carmen, Verdi's Folstiff, Hugo Weisgall's Six Characters in Search of an Author, and Frank Lewin's Burning Bright.

The season will run from June 28 through July 22 and all performances will take place at McCarter Theatre. Casting and the creation of artistic teams are currently underway.

The festival will open with Carmen, followed by Folstiff. The Festival is known for its presentation of a modern work, and this season it will offer Six Characters in Search of an Author, based on the play by Pirandello.

Finally, the Opera Festival will add a fourth production to its traditional three-production season. It will embark on the first professional production of Burning Bright, Princeton composer Frank Lewin's work based on a Steinbeck novella.

Last year was Opera Festival's second season at McCarter, having moved from its long-time venue at the Kirby Arts Center at The Lawrenceville School.

"The fact that Opera Festival is not only committed to the classics, but also to modern works as well, sets our company apart in the world of opera," said Karen Tilier, general director. "We will continue to expand the artistic horizons of the company by bringing you thoughtful productions of more varied modern repertoire."

Opera Festival of New Jersey is the state's largest and only professional opera company, the only opera company in the state to have received funding from the National Endowment for the Arts, and the only opera company to be recognized as a major cultural institution by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/The Department of State.

Information of purchasing subscriptions and tickets is expected to be available later in the spring.

YWCA Announces Class Line-Up For Winter Session

Winter classes at the YWCA Princeton will begin soon; following is a sampling from each area.

The Adult Department offers several book groups, poetry-writing workshops; introduction to bridge and duplicate bridge lessons; piano lessons; an investment club for women, and support groups for adoptive families, healing through grief, and single parents. In addition, there are trips scheduled to an opera in New York City and to the Museum of Modern Art, as well as business women's breakfasts, and monthly lunches with speakers.

The Aquatics winter session runs from January 10 to March 12, and includes classes for ages 4 months through adult, beginner to expert, lifeguard instruction, rehabilitation swim therapy, and pre- and post-natal exercise. Classes also are available at the Outreach Aquatics Program in Plainsboro.

The Arts and Crafts Department offers art instruction, knitting, and quilting for all ages, framing and weaving workshops, and many other classes. New this winter are "Knit a Felt Hat" and "The Art of Silk Painting."

Gymnastic instruction in the Athletic Department is available for girls and boys of all ages, along with indoor basketball and soccer lessons, cheerleading/tumbling, the Excelled competitive girls' gymnastic team, and martial arts for children and adults. Most sessions begin the week of January 10.

The line-up of lessons from the Dance Department includes "kinderdanz," ballet, jazz, and tap for children; and ballet, tap, and Middle Eastern dancing for adults.

The English as a Second Language (ESL) Department

offers core curriculum levels for new arrivals who speak little or no English, as well as for those who need advanced grammar skills, and enrichment classes to supplement the basics.

From Health and Fitness, there is a great variety to help everyone shape up, and stay that way. Choose from weight training, step, spinning, yoga, martial arts, and much more. New this winter are a yoga workout to music, kids' fitness, women's self-defense, and a class working with fitness balls. Sessions begin the week of January 10.

A complete description of each course can be found in the Winter 2000 catalog, sent to many Princeton homes in December. Those who did not receive a copy, may pick one up in the main office on Paul Robeson Place, or telephone 497-2100.

Princeton YWCA Sets Women's Health Workshop

The YWCA Princeton's Women's Health Initiative will take place Saturday, January 22, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., in the living room of Bramwell House, adjacent to the main building. Included in the program will be tips on building relaxation into daily activities, and designing a lifestyle and career that fit life goals.

Workshop topics include an update on treatment of arthritis, heart disease, osteoporosis, and high blood pressure by Dr. Julia Dippl of the South Brunswick Family Practice, information on breast cancer screening by Dr. Gwen Guglielmi of Princeton Radiology Associates, and a discussion on rehabilitation medicine by Dr. Patricia Graham of Princeton Orthopaedic Associates.

Dr. Mary Meritz of Meritz Psychiatric Associates will offer an update on depression and other psychiatric issues, Dr. Mary Beth Kazanski of the Princeton Medical Group will talk about oral contraceptives and hormone replacement, and Dr. Joanne Kalish, Health for Life, will discuss healthy weight reduction.

In addition, Deborah Metzger, director of the Princeton Center for Yoga and Health, will demonstrate relaxation techniques, and Barbara Fascetta of the Coaching Advantage will talk about facilitating life goals.

Workshop participants are asked to bring a brown bag lunch, and the workshop will break from noon to 1 p.m. Fee for the workshop is $20 for YWCA members, and $30 for non-members. For further information or to register, call 497-2100.

Register at the YMCA For Winter Programs

Don't let winter slow you down. Even when it is snowing outside, you can swim or play basketball or soccer inside at the YMCA, Paul Robeson Place.

Registration is now under way for group and private swimming lessons for all ages; martial arts; ballet and jazz; aerobic, step and kick-boxing classes; after-school programs; youth basketball, indoor soccer and floor hockey; personal training; massage; weight loss and nutritional counseling; and full- and half-day child care.

The YMCA also offers a full line of strength training and cardiovascular equipment to help you get back in shape after the holidays. For more information, or to receive a program guide, call 497-9622.

NEED AN EARLY COPY OF TOWN TOPICS? You can buy one at our office, 4 Mercer Street, or at Princeton newsstands Wednesday mornings after 9 a.m.

Adults With Special Needs Invited to Drop-in Center

The Hub, a drop-in center for adults with special needs, is open Saturday nights from 7 to 10 in the basement of the Princeton United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

Refreshments, games and music are provided. There is no charge to attend. The Hub also occasionally plans special events for the Saturday night gatherings.

For information, call the Hub and leave a message at 924-0781.

Winter Classes Are Under Way At Senior Center

The Winter Schedule of classes at the Princeton Senior Resource Center has just begun, but openings are still available in several courses. Call 924-7108 to register and for more information.

"Flexercise with Joce" began a new series on Mondays, 10:45 a.m. on January 3, at Spruce Circle, for all interested senior citizens. Led by Jocelyn Helm, certified dance therapist, the chair exercises are designed especially for people with arthritis and other disabilities such as cardiac problems, emphysema and rheumatism, but all seniors are invited to participate. Fee is $10 for 10 classes.

Beginner's Spanish, taught by Mari Garces, began a new series of classes on Tuesday, January 11, at Spruce Circle, at 11 a.m. No prior knowledge of Spanish is necessary; classes are relaxed and congenial. Senora Garces will cover such essentials as ordering a meal in a restaurant, going shopping, taking a bus and going to the post office. There is no fee for the class, but registration is required.

Professor George Ingenbrandt, retired from Mercer Community College, continues his popular topic on "Women Who Made an Impression in the World" with a 15-week series beginning Tuesday, January 18, at 1 p.m. at Spruce Circle. The fee is $34.

Line Dancing at the Suzanne Patterson Center began on Wednesday, January 5, from 10:45 to 11:30 a.m. The music is catchy, the dances are easy, the company is great and the benefits are many. Line Dancing is a no-impact aerobic activity which improves coordination and memory and you don't need a partner. The class is led by Judith Goetzmann, certified aerobic instructor and personal trainer. The fee is $10 for 10 classes and registration is required.

"Let's Talk and Let's Talk Too" — Bring your own topic to a group meeting sponsored by the Princeton Senior Resource Center. A discussion group facilitated by Beverly A. Zola, LPC, national certified gerontological counselor, will be held at Spruce Circle Wednesdays, 10:30 a.m. at Redding Circle and 3 p.m. at Spruce Circle. As part of the group experience a variety of relaxation techniques will be introduced. Light refreshments will be provided. The groups are open to the community seniors but registration is required. There is no charge. To register or for more information about these special programs, call PSRC and ask for Beverly Zola.

"Support Group for Caregivers" — Providing support and assistance for an elderly relative can be overwhelming and provoke a wide variety of emotions. Striking a balance between caregiving & care of oneself may appear impossible at times.

To help find balance, PSRC offers these sessions combining information and education along with sharing and mutual support from group members. Held second Wednesday of each month from 6:30 to 8 p.m., at Spruce Circle. Light refreshments are provided. Open to the community seniors, but registration is required. There is no charge. Call PSRC and ask for Beverly A. Zola.

Instructor Nancy Alexander continues her popular "The Joy of Yoga." A new eight-week series of classes began at Suzanne Patterson Center on Thursday, January 6 at 10 a.m. Traditional Yoga postures stretch and strengthen muscles and keep joints flexible.

Postures are done standing and on well-padded mats, and will be adapted to individual needs and limitations. A guided relaxation concludes each session. The fee for the course is $24. To register, call PSRC.

Tai Chi begins a new 10-week series on Tuesday, February 8, at 10 a.m., at the Suzanne Patterson Center, led by Angela Soucy. Tai Chi, created more than 800 years ago and often called "moving meditation," can improve function of the nervous system, reduce stress, keep the joints flexible and muscles toned, and improve balance and coordination.

Tai Chi emphasizes slow controlled movement patterns and deep breathing. The fee for the course is $30. To Register, call PSRC.

"LAFF with Rice Lyons" is a warm, supportive group that gathers to have fun. Learn relaxation techniques to help cope with the tensions of daily life, listen to happy music, and learn gentle movement that keeps your body supple.

"Finding the Words" - A Poetry Workshop makes its debut in February, for the Princeton Senior Resource Center. Carol Bemmels and Tom Baskett, both poets, have led poetry groups and invite seniors to join them, to help to discover the poet within through reading, writing and sharing poetry.

No prior experience of writing poetry is necessary to enjoy this workshop. Just bring a pencil and an open mind. No charge for the six-week course. Call PSRC at 924-7108 to register and for time and location.

For more information, call 924-5471.

Susanne C. Hand, president of Preservation New Jersey, will speak at the next meeting of the Van Haltingen Historical Society, on Tuesday, January 18, at 7:30, in the Mary Jacobs Library, Rocky Hill. The public is invited.

In her presentation, "Making the Suburban State," Ms. Hand will talk about the way in which suburbia has devoured open space in recent years. She will examine what has happened to New Jersey communities since 1945, and to the families who live in them, with a special focus on the ways older children and teenagers respond to suburban environments.

A principal in the Princeton historic preservation consulting firm of Kinsey & Hand, the speaker is known for her book New Jersey Architecture, published by the New Jersey Historical Commission. She has worked on preservation projects in the New Jersey Pinelands and in Cape May City.

For information, call 359-2415.

Ira Fuchs, vice president for computing in information technology at Princeton University, will address the next meeting of 55-PLUS at 10, on Thursday, January 20. His subject will be, "Y2K, Was It a Problem?"

Mr. Fuchs' presentation will include several online demonstrations of both resolved and unresolved Y2K issues. He will discuss the details of the preparations for Y2K, whether any critical areas were missed, and whether any surprises remain likely to occur.

The meeting will take place at the Jewish Center of Princeton, 457 Nassau Street, at 10, on Thursday, January 20.

Plane Crash

Mr. Kazmark — who kept in touch with Sharon Haupt via e-mail after she retired — said the Haupts planned to go to London to continue their vacation.

Molly Haupt was due to return to school in mid-January, said Mr. Dewey, who added that, despite the tragedy, she still wanted to do so. "She's very strong," he said.

Minutes before the plane disappeared from radar, Mr. Haupt radioed in to Charleston Airport to say he was experiencing a fuel problem, according to Mr. Powell, the NTSB investigator. Mr. Powell is still investigating, and could not say for sure whether the plane ran out of fuel. But there was no explosion, no fire damage to the plane or nearby vegetation, and no visible fuel leakage, he confirmed.

Out of Fuel?

Along with the pilot distress call, these factors hint that the plane ran out of fuel. Mr. Powell did not know how long the investigation would take, but said they typically take six to nine months.

The plane crashed in Cordesville, S.C., in a section of the Francis Marion National Forest known as the Hell Hole Swamp. The name fits, according to rescue workers who fought their way to the plane through dense foliage.

The terrain and a dense fog which blanketed the region the night of the crash made finding the plane very difficult, according to Berkeley County coroner Wade Arnette.

Search teams patrolled the area in four-wheel drive vehicles, and flew overhead in an Air Force plane and a helicopter from the Charleston Sheriff's department, according to Mr. Arnette.

Shortly after the fog lifted, between 3:30 and 4 a.m., authorities in the air spotted the downed plane's emergency locator beacon, and directed their colleagues on the ground to the crash site, according to Mike Willis, a spokesperson for South Carolina's Department of Natural Resources, which helped in the search.

Finally Found

At some time during the five to six hours between the crash and her rescue, Molly Haupt climbed onto the plane's wing. When she heard the search party moving through the woods in the dark, and saw their flashlights, she called out for help, guiding her rescuers to her.

Rescuers found the plane fairly intact. "There was substantial damage, but it was not totally disintegrated," said Mr. Powell of the NTSB.

Molly Haupt's world, however, was anything but intact. "Physically, she's going to be fine," said Mr. Dewey, the chaplain. "But she was emotionally devastated. It took hours for us to get to her and she was there alone in the middle of the swamp with her mom and dad who had died."

Molly Haupt was taken to the Medical University of South Carolina hospital in Charleston. Her remaining relatives — a grandmother in Medford, two uncles from Massachusetts, an uncle from Indiana, an aunt from Connecticut, and a half-brother on her mom's side, John Hurley, of California — were notified.

Her relatives came to visit her in the hospital, and on January 6, the extended family headed north to Princeton, intending to stay at the Haupt's home on Bogart Court — old Drakes Corner Road — until the funeral, said Mr. Dewey.

Before she left South Carolina, Molly Haupt had an emotional meeting with some of her rescuers, said Mr. Dewey. "These guys do rescue all the time, he said, but it's often just recovery, so they don't get thanked often. They were glad to save someone."

The people of Berkeley County, where the plane went down, took Molly Haupt's sad story to heart, according to Mr. Arnette, the coroner. "The whole community fell in love with her," he said.

The story struck an emotional chord here, too, judging from the 200-plus people who filled the Quaker Meeting House to capacity for Saturday's funeral. A smaller, graveside ceremony followed at Highland Cemetery in Hopewell.

A Good Pilot

William Haupt had no accidents or incident reports on his flying record, according to the FAA. By all accounts he was an excellent pilot. Mr. Arnette speculated that, had it not been foggy and dark, Mr. Haupt might have been able to pull off an emergency landing.

"They were only about three miles into the forest," he said. "If it had been in the day — there's a lot of gravel roads in there — he probably could have set it down ... or he could even have set it down in the trees. About three years ago somebody set a plane down in the trees, and the worst injury was a broken leg."

The Haupts both died of chest trauma, said Mr. Arnette. He performed an autopsy on Mr. Haupt, in accordance with procedure, because Mr. Haupt was the pilot. "I'm certain there were no drugs or alcohol involved," added Mr. Arnette, who was still awaiting toxicology results.

The tragic news hit PHS hard. Sharon Haupt had been a fixture there for five years, and her daughter had been there nearly as long. The school's flag was flown at half mast, and a Saturday wrestling meet was pushed back several hours to keep it from conflicting with the memorial services.

"She [Sharon] loved being in the library, being around books, being around kids," said Mr. Kazmark, the principal. "Tuesday we made sure there was counseling available. Most of us were in shock all of Tuesday. It's a very difficult piece of information to share and deal with."

"I got an e-mail from her Monday saying she had to reach Key West, and then was on to London. I wrote back 'must be rough,' but by the time I sent the message the plane had already crashed."

sophisticated "trompe l'oeil." The labyrinth is a recurring motif in his engravings.

Mr. Lazarov has said, "I search for more complex use of different techniques of engraving. I try to combine the so-called industrial fashion of engraving with an expressionist one; and the style varies from surrealistic to abstract. A basic concern of mine ... is how humanistic imagery (embodying man as a measure of all things) interacts with the chaotic and violent environment of our time."

ART

Printmakers, Ms. Hartill was raised in the wilds of New Zealand, but now works out of two studios — one in England and one in the Andalusian mountains of Spain.

Her landscape etchings and collagraphs possess three-dimensional qualities; and she often collages together several deeply-etched plates on a matrix to produce the sculptural images that are her signature.

Mr. Lazarov, who was born and studied in Bulgaria, now lives in The Netherlands. His skillfully-drawn human figures are combined with complex abstract designs to create a

Mr. Werner, born in Ghent, Belgium, received his preliminary art education in Brussels. He has since studied in the U.S. and in London, at the Byam Shaw School of Art and the Slade School of Fine Art. He is currently completing a major landscape commission in Argentina.

Mr. Werner's forte is in traditional etching with aquatint; he also works in watercolor and pastel. His monochromatic etchings will be the focal point in the gallery exhibition.

Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 11 to 5, and by appointment. For information, call 921-9292.

ABSTRACT MELTDOWN: This etching by Brenda Hartill, entitled "Silver Meltdown," will be at the Pringle International Gallery, 8 Chambers Street, from January 29 to February 26. Ms. Hartill is one of three artists represented in the gallery's international print show.

CRACKS IN TREES —

Major cracks that form in trees are often blamed on one of two causes: the freezing and thawing of the trunk during the winter and the effects of direct sunlight on the trunk during any part of the year. Cracks were thought to develop on the outside of the trunk and move inward.

As we learn more about how trees grow, function, and protect themselves, we are realizing that this may not be true. Studies by Dr. Alex Shigo indicate that cracks begin to form inside the tree and move toward the surface.

Cracks can originate from wounds, improper pruning cuts, root injury, branch stubs and weak crotches. The important point to realize is that the crack originates inside the tree. Freeze/thaw cycles, drought, wind and heat can cause swelling and contraction of tree stems. These actions may serve to force the internal cracks toward the surface.

The environmental conditions did not create the crack; they simply stimulated an existing crack to the surface. Proper tree care prevents crack formation. Training young trees to proper form, eliminating weak crotches, proper pruning cuts and wound prevention are the keys.

Tree wraps and pruning paints do little to prevent cracks. Cracks can form beneath tree wrap as if it wasn't there. Call us at WOODWINDS (924-3500) today for any questions concerning your garden's needs.

Princeton Men's Basketball Falls Short In Overtime Versus Lafayette Saturday

Like Nate Walton's desperation shot in the final seconds of Princeton University men's basketball's overtime loss to Lafayette on Saturday, the Tigers have been coming up short without Mason Rocca:

Princeton is 5-2 with Rocca and 2-5 without him. After Saturday's 70-69 loss, the Tigers are 7-7 heading into their annual lay-off to study for finals. They resume play on Monday, January 24, at home, versus Catholic University, and jump into their all-important Ivy League games that weekend, with contests at Cornell on Friday, January 28 and Columbia on Saturday the 29th.

Rocca will still be sidelined when the Tigers return. He had surgery to remove bone chips from his ankle on December 29, and is expected to miss six weeks. If he returns as expected — against Dartmouth on February 11 — he will have two games to get back up to speed before Princeton hosts Ivy-favorite Penn on February 15.

"He's still got a month left," said Princeton coach Bill Carmody when asked how Rocca was coming along. "They won't know anything for a while."

Rocca is the Tigers' best rebounder, and Princeton clearly missed its 6'9, 235-pound senior workhorse against Lafayette. The Leopards won partly because of their 43-28 edge on the boards. On the offensive glass, they out-rebounded Princeton 15-1.

I don't think we're that far away from being a good team — without Mason even," said Carmody. "Our rebounding needs work ... I just wish we had a little more strength."

Rocca's injury will be a blessing in disguise if other Tigers can blossom in his absence. Three have started to: junior forward Nate Walton has become the best passer on the team; sophomore center Chris Young has emerged from an early-season slump to become the force in the middle that he was last season; and freshman guard Spencer Gloger seems to get better with each game.

Walton, Young and Gloger are the nucleus of the Rocca-less Tigers. Each played all 45 minutes of the Lafayette game. Young scored a game-high 24 points. Gloger added 21. Walton scored eight and handed out seven assists. He made an uncharacteristically high seven turnovers, however, on a night when Princeton did not take care of the ball well.

Turnovers

We turned the ball over 16 times against a team that doesn't press you," said Carmody. "That bothers me."

"I wasn't getting the turnovers on hard plays," said Walton, "just mental mistakes."

Junior guard C.J. Chapman came off the bench to score 10 points, including a three pointer which put Princeton up 68-67 with 1:37 left in OT. But he missed the potential game winner from long range on the Tigers' last possession. Walton rebounded that miss and threw up an off-balance air-ball as time expired.

It was not the ending Carmody hoped for. Down 70-69, he called time out with 14.7 seconds left. His final play was designed to get the ball to Young, who was being guarded by a much shorter player after both Lafayette centers fouled out. Despite the mismatch, Princeton could not get the ball inside, and had to settle for Chapman's three-point attempt.

"You don't want to take a three at that point," said Carmody. "I thought we'd get it to the center, get the layup, or draw the foul."

"It was a play we had been running all night," said Young. "They knew it was coming. We threw it to C.J. after I wasn't open. It was a tough shot. Then Nate got the offensive rebound and threw up a shot. It was certainly not the play we designed. It shouldn't have come down to that play. Honestly, we should've taken care of things before then."

One of the strangest things in the 1999 football season was when cornerback Rodregis Brooks of Alabama-Birmingham got injured in the second quarter of a game against East Carolina on Nov. 13 ... He was taken to the dressing room where his jersey was cut off so doctors could administer to him ... His injury didn't prove serious and doctors gave him permission to return to the game in the second half ... Only one problem ... The team didn't have a spare jersey with his number on it ... So, Brooks' mother came to the dressing room and literally gave him the shirt off her back ... His mother had worn his 1998 jersey to the game, and Brooks finished the game wearing his mother's shirt ... In that shirt he returned an interception 91 yards for a TD.

Tiger Basketball

Lafayette — which improved to 8-4 — is not easily taken care of. Carmody gave them plenty of credit for the win: "I thought it was a pretty good basketball game, to tell the truth ... They're one of the few teams I enjoy watching. I don't see them losing in the Patriot League this year. They went to the NCAA's last year."

Jadwin Jinx Ends

Junior guard Brian Ehlers scored 19 to pace the winners, who beat Princeton at Jadwin for the first time since 1954. Lafayette won at home over Princeton last year to snap a 14-year losing streak to the Tigers. The last time the Leopards beat Princeton a second straight time was also in 1954.

After winning, Lafayette's players hugged each other and pumped their fists in the air. Their coach, Fran O'Hanlon, said his team was thrilled to snap its 46-year losing streak at Jadwin. "When we beat Princeton we get very excited," he said. "I always tell the guys to 'act like you've been there before,' but we haven't beat Princeton that often."

"It was a great win for us and the program," said Ehlers. "I knew we hadn't won in Jadwin for many years."

Lafayette led for most of the first half, but never by more than five points. Princeton came from behind to tie the game five times, and got its first lead, 29-27, on Chapman's three pointer with 3:51 left before halftime.

Several lead changes later, the teams headed to the locker room with Princeton up 38-36. Princeton could not hold its lead for long, however. Lafayette tied the game 42-42 at 15:27, and never trailed again in regulation after going up 47-46 at 13:11. Ehlers sank both ends of a one-and-one to give his team its biggest lead of the game, 56-48, at 9:02.

Princeton fought its way back, and tied the game 63-63 when Gloger nailed a three pointer with a man in his face and the shot clock winding down at 2:15.

Overtime

Neither team scored in the last two minutes of regulation. Princeton got off to a good start in the extra period when Young sank two free throws to put it up 65-63. But Ehlers answered with a jumper, then a layup, to make it 67-65 Lafayette.

After Gloger turned the ball over, Princeton got a lucky break when Tim Bleg lost control of his dribble with nobody between SHARP SHOOTER: Spencer Gloger shot 60 percent from the floor, including 5-of-9 three pointers, and scored 21 points for Princeton in its loss to Lafayette.

him and the basket. Princeton got lucky again when Ehlers — who entered shooting 91 percent from the free-throw line — missed two foul shots seconds later.

Chapman's three pointer made it 68-67 Princeton. Brian Burke answered with the game-winner from beyond the arc, making it 70-68 Lafayette. Young drew a foul with 50.6 seconds left, and could have tied it from the line. He had made 10-of-11 from the charity stripe up to that point, but managed just 1-of-2 with the pressure on.

Chapman rebounded Tyson Whitfield's miss with 30 seconds to go. Carmody let his team bring the ball up-court and start its half court offense, but called time when that offense did not get on track right away. Unfortunately, it did not get on track after the time out either.

Buzzer Beaters: Chris Young blocked three shots against Lafayette, and now has 95 for his career. That is good for fourth place on Princeton's all-time list behind Craig Robinson (97), Rich Simkus (98) and Rick Hielscher (159).

Princeton won 209 games in the 1990's, more than in any other decade.

Tiger Hockey Takes Two Points the Hard Way; Losing to Lowly Brown Then Defeating Harvard

Two points the hard way, or should we say the Princeton way? That's what the Tiger hockey team came away with this weekend after a trip to Providence and Cambridge to play last place Brown and first place Harvard.

Normally, when you hit the road for a weekend of ECAC competition, you hope for at least a split, that will add two points to your season's total. The conventional wisdom ahead of this trip would figure the Orange and Black to grab its two points on Friday night at the cellar-dwelling Bruins' expense, rather than have to go into the Crimson's Bright Hockey Center and win. Old Nassau's record up there is far from stellar.

Typically, that scenario did not materialize. Princeton ran into trouble in Providence in the form of a red hot Brown goalie that gave them just one goal in 50 shots, and lost, 2-1. Faced with the prospect of coming home empty-handed, coach Don Cahoon's troops regrouped in Cambridge and ambushed Harvard, 4-2.

The split enabled Old Nassau to move up to sole possession of third place, just two points behind Harvard, which managed to hold on to first, because it defeated Yale Friday night. Now the Tigers face some down time in the form of a two-week exam break, and by the time they get back into action, other teams may have passed them in the standings. Just five points separate the top nine sextets.

Princeton will return to action on Sunday, January 23, when it will face UMass-Lowell, a formidable opponent that already has victories over several ECAC teams. The Orange and Black's next league action will come against RPI and Union on Friday and Saturday, January 28 and 29.

The Tigers appear to have what it takes to make a good stretch run. Starting goalie Dave Stathos is playing as well as any netminder in the league. The offense, which was a concern at the beginning of the campaign, has produced 35 goals in conference play, tops in the league with Harvard. The special teams are the best in the league at the moment with a plus six rating, as measured by power play goals scored and allowed and shorthanded goals scored and allowed.

A top five finish and home ice for the quarterfinal round is a goal Princeton is aiming for, and it is realistic to think that it can be achieved for the second consecutive year.

Bruins Do Their Thing

Fortunately we had the presence of mind to point out in last week's column that the Bruins might have a shabby record, but they always play the Tigers tough. And tough it was indeed in Meehan Auditorium last Friday night as the Bruins prevailed in a tight, defensive struggle.

It certainly wasn't from lack of trying on Princeton's part. The Orange and Black fired a season-high 50 shots at Brown goalie Scott Stirling, who lived up to his name and allowed just one to elude him during a sterling performance. That was a career high saves in one game for Stirling, and several times the word spectacular could be put in front of save when describing his efforts for the night.

That was especially true for the final 1:23 when Cahoon pulled goalie Dave Stathos in favor of a sixth skater. With the puck in the Bruins' zone for most of this time, Stirling stopped a pair of potential goals by Dave Schneider and one each by Kirk Lamb and Chris Corrinet. For his part Stathos faced just 20 shots, making just six saves in each period, and the third was his undoing.

Behind by 1-0 entering the final frame, Brown took just 1:37 to tie the score. Stathos left the net to try and clear the puck from behind the cage to the corner, but failed in the attempt, and a centering shot by Jason Wilson hit either a Princeton or Brown player in front of the net and caromed in before Stathos was fully set back in the cage.

It took almost 12 minutes for the game-winner to materialize, and it came when Brown's Jon Zielinski deflected in a shot from the point by Tyler Garrow. Princeton managed 18 shots in the final 20 minutes, but Stirling stopped every one.

The one that did get by him came halfway through the contest. Brad Parson's hard work got the puck over to Corrinet who delivered a pass to Ethan Doyle, perfectly positioned at the right post. Doyle merely had to deflect the puck into the net before Stirling could react, and Princeton had a 1-0 lead at 11:14 of the middle stanza.

If the Tigers could be faulted for anything it would be their work on the power play. They came into the contest leading the league in power play efficiency, but left empty handed despite six opportunities. They did manage to stop Brown from scoring on four man-up situations.

Holding on Against Harvard

Twenty-four hours later against Harvard, the Tigers found themselves in the same kind of contest as far as scoring. There was none in the first period, with Stathos stopping 12 shots and the Crimson's J.R. Prestifilippo turning aside 13.

Again, the Tigers were first on the scoreboard, with Brad Meredith scoring at 2:14 of the second stanza, assisted by freshman George Parros and Shane Campbell. Harvard struck back less than three minutes later on a goal by Scott Turco.

Handed a power play opportunity late in the period, Princeton broke a zero for nine weekend streak in that department when Corrinet and Kirk Lamb collaborated on a breakaway score. Corrinet's flip pass found Lamb alone at the red line behind the Harvard defense, and he went in alone on Prestifilippo and buried the puck in the net.

"The defense must have been pretty far up ice not to be able to catch me," Lamb said later. "But I'm pretty stealthy, they probably didn't see me there."

Princeton carried that lead into the third period, and based on the shot totals you would have thought the Tigers never could have survived the final 20 minutes. The Crimson came out charging and notched the tying goal within the first seven minutes. It continued to press for the go-ahead tally, pumping 17 shots at Stathos in the final 20 minutes. However, it was the Tigers, managing just five shots, who got the game-winner.

Corrinet connected with Lamb again, sending a banked pass to him, and Lamb in turn sent the puck to Brad Parsons, who split the Harvard defense, and beat poor Prestifilippo again, with 4:06 left.

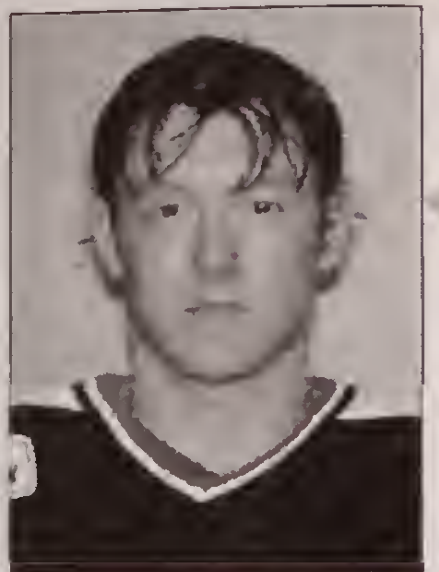

The senior goalie was pulled with 63 seconds left, but with Princeton on a power play it merely evened up the skaters at five apiece, and Meredith fed Ethan Doyle for the empty-net tally that sealed the outcome.

"There have been a few times where we have not done anything particularly well in a game, yet worked hard and gutted it out for a win," Cahoon commented after the game. This was one of those times."

This is the legacy that Cahoon has brought to Princeton in his nine seasons here. His teams are known for guts and determination, and finding a way to win.

—Jet Stuart

SLAPSHOTS: Kirk Lamb is third in scoring in ECAC games (first in assists) with 13 points, and Chris Corrinet is right behind him in fourth place.

HIS TURN TO BE A HERO:
Brad Parsons had the winning goal in the Tigers' 4-2 triumph over Harvard last Saturday in Cambridge.

Hun Boys' Hoops Loses to Falcons In Double Overtime

Hun boys' basketball lost 53-44 in double overtime at home to prep rival Peddie on December 6.

Peddie's smaller lineup pressed for most of the game, to good effect, as Hun made 27 turnovers. But much of the blame for those turnovers lies squarely on Hun's shoulders. Even when they were not pressured, the Raiders threw sloppy passes, many of which sailed high above their targets' heads and went out of bounds.

Hun stayed in the game by shooting better than its opponent. Led by 6'10 center Kevin Garrity and 6'8 forward Don Quinn, the Raiders owned the paint at both ends of the floor.

Hun's big men posted up and got layups. On the other end they blocked several Peddie shots, which led most of the Falcons to settle for long-range jumpers. As a result, Hun made 18-of-39 field goals (46.1 percent), while Peddie sank just 19-of-62 (30.6 percent).

Duran Searles was not intimidated by Garrity or Quinn, however. The 6' Peddie forward drove the lane repeatedly, often scoring or drawing trips to the free throw line.

Searles posted a game-high 25 points. He made 6-of-7 free throws as Peddie sealed the win in the second overtime.

Big Man, Big Game

Garrity scored 13 points and gathered 10 rebounds to pace the Raiders. Quinn had nine points, and sank a three pointer with four seconds left to force the first overtime. His teammate, Brian Giordano (10 points), later sank a three pointer with 26 seconds left in the first overtime to make the score 40-40 and force a second extra period.

Garrity did not start. He gave his team a big lift off the bench in the first quarter by scoring the first couple times he touched the ball, including a massive dunk that drew roars from the crowd. The game was tied 6-6 when Garrity entered. By the end of the first quarter Hun led 12-6.

The Falcons rallied in the second quarter. By halftime they had tied the game 14-14. Hun led 24-21 heading into the fourth quarter. But Peddie capitalized on three straight Hun turnovers, and reeled off seven straight points to lead 28-24.

Hun answered with a run of its own, and soon led 30-28. Peddie came back to lead 34-31 before Quinn made his clutch three pointer to force overtime.

Hun's loss to Peddie was sandwiched between its 68-40 defeat at St. Benedict's on January 4 and its 36-30 win at Solebury on January 8.

Garrity scored 11 points at St. Benedict's. Quinn had eight. Giordano had seven, including the Raiders' lone three pointer.

The Gray Bees — who improved to 11-3 — had beaten the Raiders 66-36 back on December 10 in a tournament hosted by Peddie.

Garrity dropped 19 on Solebury as Hun improved to 5-9. Quinn added 7. Jonna Pento scored nine to lead Solebury, which fell to 6-6. Pento scored all his points on three-point shots.

Giordano scored 52 points over Hun's three games in the Augusta (Ga.) Prep Tournament, which was held over holiday break. He made the tournament's all-star team. At press time on Tuesday, Hun was playing at Blair Academy. —Albert Raboteau

SCORE ONE FOR PRINCETON DAY: Steph Costa (20) and Alex Koerte (19) watch as a shot by Blair Lamb sails into the Greenwich net. The third-period goal brought PDS to within two of Greenwich, but the final score ended 4-2 in favor of the visitors.

PDS Girls Hockey Is Defeated 4-2 By Greenwich

The Princeton Day girls hockey team lost only its second game in nine starts last week, falling to Greenwich Academy, 4-2, on Saturday. Earlier in the week the Panthers had blanked a club team from Pennsylvania and now have a 7-2 mark.

Starting off the week last Thursday, the Panthers faced the Glaciers Club team from Warminster, Pa., and sent the visitors home after a 7-0 whipping. The Glaciers came in with a 6-1 record, but obviously their competition did not match up well with PDS's opponents.

It took less than two minutes into the game for freshman Genny Lescroart to score her first varsity goal, assisted by Blair Lamb. Tyler Bracken made it 2-0 a few minutes later and when Koerte tallied the first of her hat trick just 20 seconds after that, the rout was on.

Before the period had ended Steph Friedman and Lamb had each scored to lift the total to five. The second and third periods were quiet with Alex Koerte scoring once in each to complete her hat trick; she also had two assists. PDS got off an incredible 85 shots, an average of almost two a minute. Courtney Bergh made 15 saves to earn the shutout.

On Saturday Greenwich not surprisingly proved to be a much tougher foe. The visitors opened the scoring with 1:58 left in the first period, and added another tally early in the second for a 2-0 lead. Midway through the second Alix Warren broke through for PDS, assisted by Alex Koerte, to cut the deficit in half.

But Greenwich matched that goal four minutes later, and added a fourth score early in the third. Blair Lamb notched an unassisted tally with 9:49 left in the game, but that was as close as PDS could come. Bergh had 27 saves.

The contest was a good warm-up for this Wednesday when the Blue and White will face Lawrenceville at home. This weekend the Panthers will be tested again when they meet Millbrook School on Friday and Pelham Hockey Club on Saturday. When Princeton Day finished 16-1 a year ago, Pelham was the only team to beat them.

PDS Quintet Is Victor, Routing Wardlaw, 64-13

Princeton Day and Wardlaw-Hartridge have had some memorable games just a couple of seasons ago, battling for supremacy in the Prep B division. That's not the case any more.

The talent level in Edison has obviously taken a precipitous drop of late, and the Rams are a mere shell of their former selves. Last Saturday Alan Taback's team blew them away like lint off a suit lapel, 64-13. The first period was the most respectable with PDS building a 14-7 lead, but the Rams couldn't manage more than six points after that.

The second half was particularly painful for the home forces; they got outscored 33-2. Brendan Hart led the Blue and White with 19 points, Pierre Downing added 14.

Princeton Day, now sporting a 5-5 mark, will play St. Patrick's High School on Wednesday, Life Center Academy, Friday, and Hill School, Saturday.

Hun Hockey Drops 3 Straight; Slides to 3-6-3

Westfield scored twice in the third period to squeak by Hun boys' hockey 3-2 on Monday.

It was the Raiders' third straight loss. They fell to Summit on Friday and to St. Joseph's on Tuesday, January 4. Now 3-6-3, Hun has not won since December 13.

At Westfield, Hun entered the final period up 2-1 on two goals from Fran Cattani. Hun's goalie, Mike Tenney, made 33 saves, but it was not enough as Westfield outshot the Raiders 36-26. Westfield improved to 2-8.

Brian Whitman put Hun up 1-0 early against Summit, but the visitors came roaring back to win 4-1. Despite Tenney's 17 saves, Summit scored a pair of goals in both the second and third periods. Summit improved to 6-4. It outshot Hun 21-19. David Haire scored twice for the Hilltoppers. His teammate, Mike Nelson, had two assists.

Andy Mikolasy and Justin Lambert both got assists on Whitman's goal. Hun fell to 3-5. It last won on December 13, and has one tie and two losses since then.

January 4 was a long day for Tenney, who faced 50 shots in his team's 6-0 loss to St. Joseph's of Metuchen. Tenney and the Raiders were overwhelmed by the St. Joseph's barrage early in the

PDS Girls Basketball Whips Lawrenceville

The Princeton Day girls' basketball team gave its season a big boost Monday when it knocked off Lawrenceville, 57-48, at home. The Panthers' record is now 6-5.

Coach T.J. Costello's team made a statement right in the first quarter when it took a 16-7 lead, and it never looked back. Ahead by seven entering the third, PDS extended its lead to 44-28 by the end of the period.

Christina Marshall led all scorers with 24 points; Page Schmucker added 17 and pulled down 10 rebounds.

game. The visitors scored four goals in the first six minutes.

Eventually Tenney settled in, somewhat. He made several impressive stops, and finished with 44 saves. Hun's offense never got on track, though, and managed just 11 shots. None went in, and the Raiders were shut out for just the second time this season. St. Joseph's scored five times in the first period and once in the third. It improved to 4-4.

Portledge Wins Again Over Panther Hockey

Hockey coach Chris Barless has accomplished many things since he came to PDS two years ago, but beating Portledge isn't one of them. The Long Island sextet whipped the Panthers 7-2 in 1998, and kicked them around 8-4 last year. This time was a lot closer, just one goal, but Barless' boys still came up short.

Princeton Day got 40 shots on goal twice as many as the home team, but the Portledge goalie, Jason Klotzer, turned every one of them aside. Armand Buzantian was almost as perfect, but let in one in the first period, and that proved to be the only one of the contest.

Friday night Princeton Day defeated LaSalle College High School, 3-0, raising its record to 10-2 in the process.

This week the Panthers will face the Junior Flyers on Thursday and Hun School on Friday.

Two Games, Two Wins For PHS Boys' Hockey

Princeton High boys' hockey improved to 8-1-1 with one-sided wins over Steinert on Monday and Lawrence on Friday.

Playing an "away" game at Mercer County Park — where the team plays half its home games — Kyle Hanson and Kevan Graydon scored two goals apiece to help Princeton down the Cardinals. Graydon added two assists, Hanson one. Eric Krieger had a goal and two assists.

Jason Diamond scored once. Princeton's goalie, Travis Hall, made 15 saves. The Tigers outshot Lawrence 40-17.

Steinert posed little problem for the Tigers, who pulled ahead 4-1 in the first period and went on to win 7-1 at Mercer County Park.

The Tigers had missed their showdown with fellow Valley Division power Notre Dame — scheduled for January 3 — when unseasonably warm weather rendered the Mercer County Park rink unusable.

By Friday, the mercury had dropped, the ice was frozen, and the Tigers were itching to play after their unexpected layoff. Diamond scored twice and Hanson once to put PHS up 3-0 early. Steinert cut the lead to 3-1, but Pete Foster answered with the first of his three goals to bring the lead back to three before the first intermission.

Hall was flawless from then on, finishing with eight saves. Foster scored the second period's only goal. Graydon tallied in the third period, then Foster completed his hat trick with the last goal of the day.

In Dual Meet PHS Wrestling Gets Two Victories

Princeton High wrestling coach Matt Wilkinson expected to beat both West Windsor and Lawrenceville in a dual meet the Tigers hosted on Saturday.

But he knew it would not be easy. "We had two different scenarios," he said. "There was West Windsor with a lot of tradition, who were maybe not willing to admit this is a growing year. They come against us with a desire to wrestle hard.

"And there's Lawrenceville, who may be regaining a bit of lost glory. They have some real nice wrestlers. So we got it from both ends."

A respected program in decline, and a program looking to earn some respect. Both can be dangerous, and both gave the Tigers a good fight on Saturday.

The Tigers came in brimming with confidence after their 40-18 rout of rival Hamilton on January 5, but WW-P soon made it clear that they would not go down so easily.

Ashwin Reddy (103) and Chris Liu (112) won decisions to put the Tigers up early, but the Pirates charged back to take the lead on pins at the next two weights. Princeton reeled off four straight wins from 130 to 145. WW-P took 152; Princeton took 160; and the Pirates took 171.

Princeton's final three wrestlers are among its best, and the Tigers have had the edge this season in matches which are determined late. The WW-P match was one of those. John Tipermas won by major decision at 189, and Alberto Marraquin pinned his foe at 215, clinching the win. Princeton forfeited the heavy-weight bout, and still won 36-30.

—Albert Raboteau

Lawrenceville and WW-P wrestled next, with the Big Red winning 33-31. It was Lawrenceville's first win over the Pirates in years, and the Big Red were fired up.

Princeton kept the Big Red from pulling off a second upset, but did not have an easy time doing so. The Tigers won 34-30 after Roy Williams won by default at 215, and Marraquin pinned his opponent in 1:12 at heavyweight.

Both Marraquin and Williams can make 215, which makes them interchangeable at that weight and heavy-weight.

"It depends on what the other team presents," said Wilkinson. "Each has his own style and strengths — not many weaknesses — but different styles. We can match them with opponents who match their style. It makes it nice for a coach with John [Tipermas] and those two. There's a real nice closure to any match for us."

Wilkinson was also delighted with how both of Saturday's matches began — with wins by Reddy and Liu. "I was very pleased with Ashwin. We've been challenging him. He came through. Another guy who wrestled at a very high level was Chris Liu."

Wilkinson will need a lot of guys to come through if the Tigers are to beat Ewing on Wednesday, January 12 and Trenton on Saturday the 15th.

"Ewing has really improved," said Wilkinson. "I expect a good match from them. Trenton — I've been worrying about them for a year. They're like the cicada; every seven years they have a great wrestling team. Unfortunately, this is the year."

PHS Girls' Hoops Wins Emphatically Over Villa Victoria

Whatever happens from here on out, Princeton High girls' basketball can rest assured that it has at least twice as many wins as last season.

Princeton only won once in 1998-99. On January 6 it won its second game of this season, 41-25, over Villa Victoria.

Molly O'Grady scored all of her six points in the first half as PHS built a 25-10 lead. O'Grady's teammate, Razwel Reed, scored five points before the break, and went on to finish with a team-high nine.

Princeton kept the pressure on in the third period — outscoring its guest 9-4 — before slowing down some in the final eight minutes. Villa Victoria outdid Princeton 11-7 in the final quarter, but the game had been decided long before.

Though the two teams play in different leagues, Princeton's win can be considered an upset since Villa Victoria was over .500 (with the loss, it slipped to 5-5).

Two Tough Losses

In dominating Villa Victoria, Princeton bounced back nicely from a 30-point loss at West Windsor-Plainsboro the day before. The Pirates ran up a 23-2 lead during the first quarter, then cruised to an easy 52-22 win.

West Windsor improved to 5-0, and looked worthy of its undefeated record. Laine Jelenic scored a game-high 12 points for the winners. Lauren Parker scored seven points to lead Princeton. Reed scored six.

Princeton did not get to savor its Villa Victoria win long, as it had a game at undefeated Ewing on January 7. Ewing — the defending Group III state champions, and current leader of the Colonial Valley Conference's Valley Division — controlled the game from start to finish, winning 68-30.

It was Princeton's most one-sided loss this season. At press time, the Tigers were getting ready to play another highly-favored foe — Trenton, which entered the game 5-1. —Albert Raboteau

Ewing Upset Is Week's Highlight For PHS Boys' Hoops

The Tigers surprised visiting Ewing — expected to be a Valley Division contender — 48-42. Junior forward Bobby Davison scored a game-high 14 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to lead the way for PHS, which improved to 2-5.

Ewing jumped out to a 13-8 lead after eight minutes, and led 20-15 at the half. Whatever Mosley told his squad at halftime worked. PHS went on a 17-7 run in the third quarter. Ewing fouled a lot in the fourth quarter, and Princeton made them pay by net-

Hun Girls' Basketball Beaten at Hightstown

Courtney Tierney scored a game-high 15 points, but her Hun girls' basketball team lost at Hightstown on Saturday.

Hightstown jumped out to a 13-5 lead in the first quarter, and survived Hun's second quarter comeback attempt to win 44-28. Hightstown improved to 4-4, while Hun fell to 4-5.

Hun went on an 8-3 run in the second quarter, and trailed just 16-13. But the Rams increased their lead to 10 by the end of the third quarter, and outscored their guest 14-8 over the last eight minutes.

Natalie Brunone scored seven points for Hun. Besides her and Tierney, no Raider scored more than two points. Hightstown had more balanced scoring, led by Erin Aures' 13 points.

At press time on Tuesday, Hun was looking to get back to .500, at home against Blair.

ting 9-of-13 from the line in the quarter.

Mark Rosenthal scored eight for the Tigers. Dan Dobin added seven points, while Linwood Marshall and Jon Trapasso had six each. Princeton shot well from three-point range. Davison, Dobin and Rosenthal each struck twice from beyond the arc, while Trapasso made one from long range. Tom Murray scored 13 for Ewing, which slipped to 2-5, 1-3 in the CVC.

Loss to WW-P

Princeton's week, which ended so happily, did not start out that way. West Windsor overcame the loss of its second leading scorer, and some terrible shooting in the first quarter, to win 63-44 at PHS on January 4.

Kyle Brown was out of action after turning his ankle in practice the day before. But the Pirates' top scorer, Eugene Walden, was fine — better than fine, actually — as he demonstrated by dropping 29 points on the Tigers.

As if playing its cross-Route-1 rival were not incentive enough, the Pirates entered the game looking for their first win after starting the year a disappointing 0-4.

West Windsor looked like a winless team early, and Princeton — which entered the game 1-3 — did not look much better, as both teams combined to shoot a miserable 7-for-32 (21.9 percent) from the floor in the first quarter.

Princeton led 9-8 after eight minutes. But its lead was short lived. The Pirates started pressing and began making shots, and outscored PHS 22-8 in the second quarter to take a commanding 30-17 halftime lead.

It got worse for Princeton in the third quarter, which the Pirates started with an 18-8 run, triggered by 12 points from Walden. The visitors' lead ballooned to 48-25 before they let up a bit. Princeton narrowed the deficit before the final buzzer, but never came close after its second-quarter collapse.

The Tiger-Pirate rivalry flared up with 26.9 seconds left in the one-sided game, when PHS's Tony Cipriano and WW-P's Ed Maqueen got in a scuffle under the Princeton hoop and were both ejected — an ugly end to an ugly game.

It's a new year, and I have new hopes to be adopted soon. I would be a sweet, loyal companion. I love walkies, car rides, and water sports. At first, I'm shy and need to be introduced to people slowly. If you are a sensitive person, like me, please consider adopting me. (Homes with no small children.)

Dr. Stellar told reporters — before any salary issues were discussed with the PRS board — that he would be willing to leave Kingston for Princeton Regional, where he would probably be earning less than he made in Kingston.

In the following days, Dr. Stellar sent local reporters copies of letters recommending him to the Kingston board, that dated back to 1995. He also spewed out faxes listing names of Kingston teachers, parent leaders, administrators, board members, and union leaders, suggesting that reporters contact them for information.

"He is trying to bypass us and campaign through the media," complained several board members.

"Although I did not anticipate this delay," Dr. Marasco stated last week, "it became clear [after the site visit to Kingston] that no decision would be reached before the end of the week. The search process is being extended."

Board President Jack Marrero has appointed a committee — Barbara Prince, Board Vice President Charlotte Bialek, Bucky Hayes, and himself — to interview potential interim administrators. At press time one interview had taken place and another was scheduled for Friday, January 14. "We expect to name someone within the next ten days," Mr. Marrero said.

Mr. Marrero also noted that there is no deadline for the appointment of a permanent superintendent, but he said, "We would like to get done before the end of February."

—Anne Rivera

Why It's So Hard for Districts to Find
A 'Good and Lasting' Superintendent

S ometime next week, the Princeton Regional School Board is expected to appoint its third interim superintendent in two years.

Prolonged vacancies in the superintendent's office appear to be the rule rather than the exception for many New Jersey school districts. According to Mike Yaple, a spokesperson for the New Jersey School Boards Association, "It is not uncommon for a district to go for a year or two with interims."

There are a number of reasons; and since the process of appointing a superintendent takes an average of six to eight months, if something falls through at the last moment, search committees must start again from scratch.

New Jersey teachers enjoy, on average, the second highest salaries in the nation, according to Mr. Yaple. In the past, superintendents used to start as teachers and rise through the ranks, but there is now less financial incentive for them to move into management.

Also, superintendents in New Jersey do not enjoy tenure, which is extended to teachers and to other administrators. Limiting the pool of available superintendent applicants, as well, is the fact that superintendent certificates from out of state are not accepted in New Jersey, Mr. Yaple said.

"One thing we are up against is that few people want to become superintendents any more," PRS Board Vice President Charlotte Bialek said recently. "They don't need all the grief; and they don't want to go through the constant instability."

The average tenure of a superintendent is about two years, Ms. Bialek indicated. "Two years is not enough time to accomplish a great deal. Board members [whose term is three years] often last longer than a superintendent. We don't know how to support administrators for any length of time; and often they leave for some minor political reason."

One of the hardest tasks the board has is to determine, not just whether a candidate is qualified, she said, but whether the candidate would "fit" in the Princeton regional district. "When we think about the issues, we need to focus on finding a good and lasting superintendent who will give us what we need."

"We must learn what it would take to make the position of superintendent a more effective and stable position," she added. "The whole community needs to talk about this."

RELIGION

Service Will Honor The Life of Dr. King

Worshippers of all faiths are invited to attend a special Community Interfaith Service Celebrating the Life and Work of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Monday, January 17 at 7 p.m.

Taking place at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, the service will feature as guest preacher the Rev. Willie Walker, Chaplain of the Medical Center at Princeton and Pastor of Morning Star Holiness Church in Egg Harbor Township.

The choirs of the First Baptist Church of Princeton, the Jewish Center of Princeton, and Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will offer a varied program of spiritual music.

The Princeton Clergy Association will sponsor the ecumenical service. Carrying on the spirit of Dr. King's dreams of equal opportunity for all persons, proceeds from a special offering will benefit the programs of Princeton Habitat for Humanity and Princeton Young Achievers.

Worldwide Prayer Week To Be Held in Princeton

Jesus Cares Ministries, directed by the Rev. Martin P. Lombardo, will sponsor a Worldwide Week of Prayer.

The Week of Prayer will be held January 18 through January 25 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Princeton Borough Hall, Monument Drive. All are invited.

For information, call 924-7077.

Bulletin Notes

Faith in the Workplace, an ecumenical Christian group, meets twice a month to explore and support the integration of faith and professional work.

The group meets at Nassau Presbyterian Church, Room 206, the first and third Saturdays of each month at 8:15 a.m. All are invited.

Temple Micah will hold a Friday evening Shabbat Family Service at 8 p.m., preceded by a Tot Shabbat at 6:30, on Friday, January 14.

Services are held at the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, Route 206.

Princeton Kadampa Buddhist Center will present Buddhist Meditation Classes at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, Thursdays, from 7 to 9 p.m. on January 13, 20, 27 and February 3.

There will be talk, guided meditation and discussion with western Buddhist nun Gen Kelsang Norden.

Cost is $10 per session; $5 students, seniors. No experience is necessary. For information call (215) 848-4644.

IN ROME: Marty and Cathy Lombardo are shown at an audience with Pope John Paul II. Mr. and Mrs. Lombardo served as missionaries for Jesus Cares Ministries in Rome for ten years.

OBITUARIES

Richard Chronister, 69, of Los Angeles, Calif. died December 31 in a Santa Monica hospital after a long illness.

Born in Okmulgee, Oklahoma, he was active in the field of keyboard teacher training for more than 40 years.

He was editor and publisher of Keyboard Companion, a magazine for early-level keyboard teachers he co-founded in 1990.

He graduated cum laude in 1952 with a Mus.B. degree from the University of Tulsa. After a two-year stint as an accompanist for Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, he continued at the University of Tulsa to earn a M.Mus. degree in 1955 and was then appointed instructor of piano at the University.

In 1956 he joined the piano and piano pedagogy faculty at Westminster Choir College. He went back to the University of Tulsa in 1959 and in 1961 returned to Princeton, where he joined the staff of The New School for Music Study, where he was educational director in charge of teacher training.

In 1968 he co-founded and became educational director for National Keyboard Arts Associates and also served as director of piano pedagogy for Westminster Choir College.

He and Keyboard Arts co-founder David Kraehenbuehl concertized as a team for more than 25 years, performing much of the two-piano and four-hand piano literature.

He co-founded the National Conference on Piano Pedagogy in 1980 and served as its executive director for 15 years. In 1981 he joined the piano pedagogy faculty at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles and chaired the piano department of the Community School of Performing Arts. He was a founding board member and president of The Frances Clark Center for Keyboard Pedagogy.

He is survived by his wife, Marjore, three sons, Tony Chronister, Cliff Magness and David Newton; and four grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Sunday at the Brentwood Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles.

Memorial contributions may be made to Brentwood Presbyterian Youth Choir Fund, 12000 San Vicente Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif.

Richard Chronister 90049; or Design for Sharing, UCLA B100 Royce Hall, Box 951529, Los Angeles, Calif. 90095-1529.

Alexander James Dallas Wainwright, 82, died January 5 in Hightstown.

Born in Ventnor, the son of the late Clement R. Wainwright and Eugenia Dixon Wainwright, he attended Penn Charter School and Princeton University, Class of 1939, where he graduated with Honors. He received an M.S. degree in librarianship from Columbia University in 1941 and served for a year as assistant librarian at Cooper Union in New York City.

During World War II, Mr. Wainwright served in the U.S. Army Ordnance Department as First Lieutenant and took part in campaigns in Europe, Africa, and the Middle East. He received the Meritorious Service Unit Award and his campaign medal has three Battle Stars.

After the War, he joined the Princeton University Library, becoming a member of the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections. In addition to other duties, he assumed responsibility for the Morris L. Parris Collection of Victorian Novelists. At the time of his death, he was putting the finishing touches on a 700-page catalog of this collection.

In 1962 he was appointed assistant librarian for acquisitions. He was editor of the Princeton University Library Chronicle from 1949 to 1962. He retired in 1982 as assistant University librarian for the Collection Development. Until his death, he continued to work at the library on a part-time basis. He was known to have an encyclopedic knowledge in the world of bibliography.

Mr. Wainwright collected first editions of Thomas Wolfe, which he has donated to the Library.

Among the many organizations he was affiliated with were the Terrace Club, The Grolier Club, The Shakespeare Society, The Library Company, The Nassau Club, The Princeton Club, the Bibliographical Society of America, and the Friends of the Princeton University Library, where until his death he served as treasurer.

He is survived by his sister, Mary King Auchincloss of Malvern, Pa.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be sent to The Friends of the Princeton University Library, c/o Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, Princeton University Library, 1 Washington Road, Princeton 08544.

A funeral service was held Tuesday, January 11 at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Philadelphia. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home.

Gloria P. Grace 72, of Coral Gables, Fla., died January 3 in Coral Gables.

Born in Yonkers, N.Y., she grew up in Westchester County and Princeton.

She graduated from Princeton High School in 1945 and received a bachelor's degree in early childhood education at the Child Education Foundation of Adelphi College, New York City, and a master's degree from the State University of New York, New Paltz.

Daughter of the late George and Elizabeth McKinstry Grace, she is survived by a brother, George, of Tucson, Ariz.

Burial will be in Balmville, N.Y.

Florence Lee Poplaski, 89, of Princeton Junction, died January 8 at home following a brief illness.

Born in New York City, she was a resident of West Windsor for 27 years.

Daughter of the late Ellen and Hugh Brady, she is survived by her husband, Theodore Poplaski; a daughter, Virginia Lynch of Princeton Junction; four grandchildren; and five great-grandsons.

A Memorial Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated by Father Francis M. Lynch at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Nassau Street, on Saturday, January 15 at noon.

Memorial contributions may be made to Womanspace, Inc., 1212 Stuyvesant Avenue, Trenton 08618.

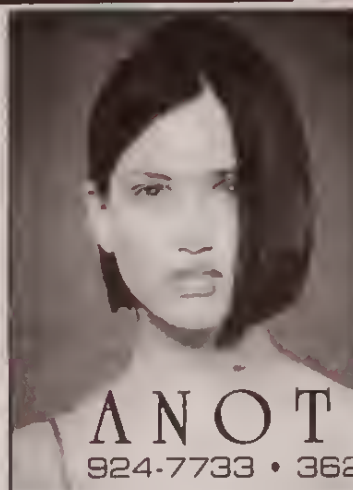

Arrangements are by the Kimble Funeral Home.

The Reverend Gerard J. Farrell, O.S.B., 80, died on Sunday, January 9, at St. John's Abbey, the Benedictine Monastery in Collegeville, Minnesota.

Father Farrell was born John Farrell in Dorchester, Mass., of the late Daniel and Mary Greene Farrell. In his earliest years, he developed a passion for music that would span his entire life. He studied music and received a B.A. from St. John's University, Collegeville.

The Rev. G.J. Farrell

On June 30, 1946, he was ordained a Benedictine monk. After his ordination, Father Farrell became part of the St. John's University Music Department. He received a Bachelor of Music from the University of Montreal and a Masters in Music from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester. In 1960 he was awarded a Certificate in Organ and Music Composition from the Royal Flemish Conservatory of Music in Antwerp, Belgium.

At St. John's Abbey he was abbey organist from 1946 to 1969 and choirmaster from 1951 to 1969 and became the director of the schola in 1954. In 1952 he introduced the practice of singing Vespers every day of the week, not just on Sunday.

In the 1970s, he did post-graduate work at Boston University in early music and paleography and had a visiting fellowship on the faculty of arts and sciences at Harvard University. In 1976 Father Farrell moved to Princeton and became an adjunct associate professor in the Sacred Music Department of Westminster Choir College of Rider University.

At Westminster he taught courses in Gregorian Chant, Medieval Church Music Drama, Catholic Church Music and Church Latin and Liturgies.

Since 1985, he also held the position of Adjunct Professor of Gregorian Chant at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh. In 1996 he began teaching courses in Gregorian Chant in the graduate summer program, of the School of Theology at St. John's University.

Father Farrell wrote adaptations of Gregorian Chant melodies into English. He contributed to hymnals, wrote reviews for Sacred Music and Worship Magazine and lectured on Gregorian Chant and church music. He served as an interpreter of the Second Vatican Council documents on church music.

ation, P.O. Box 147, Belle Mead 08502.

Amie Lou Anderson, 89, of Princeton, died December 26 at the Princeton Nursing Home.

Born in Eads, Tenn., she lived in the Trenton area before moving to Princeton about four years ago.

She was educated in the public school system in Eads and was a graduate of the Woodstock Training and Technical School.

She was formerly a member of St. Phillips Baptist Church, Hamilton Township, where she served on the Usher Board for many years.

Daughter of the late Rev. Millard F. and Janie Boyd Anderson, she is survived by a sister, Addie Webber of Princeton; and a brother, Clarence A. Anderson of Eads.

A memorial service was held Saturday at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Felicia Thomas officiated.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Baptist Church of Princeton, John Street and Paul Robeson Place; the American Cancer Society, 3076 Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville 08648; or the Princeton Nursing Home, 35 Quarry Street, Princeton 08540.

Ayanna Mabel Dunson, 26, died January 4 at Arlington County Hospital, Arlington County, Va.

She was a former employee with Metrica Inc., Arlington.

While living in this area she attended Mount Pisgah AME Church, Princeton, and volunteered at the Merwick Unit at the Medical Center.

She graduated from the New York Institute of Technology VIP Program.

She is survived by her parents, Bruce and Nancy Dunson of Princeton; a sister, Naomi Dunson of Princeton and San Antonio, Texas; her maternal grandmother, Hazel Rivers of Jamesburg; and her paternal grandmother, Ida Dunson of Oakland, Calif.

Funeral was Saturday at Mount Pisgah AME Church. The Rev. Vernard B. Leak, pastor, officiated. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

He graduated from the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute and the Johns Hopkins University, where he received a degree in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Young was a registered professional engineer in New Jersey, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. He served on the Montgomery Township Health Department and was active in local politics. He was a member of St. Paul's Church in Princeton.

Son of the late Agnes and Elmer Young, he is survived by his wife Dana; and two daughters, Stephanie Schaefer of Woodbridge, Va. and Jennifer Gaughan of Oak Harbor, Wash.

Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated Thursday, January 13 at St. Paul's Church at 11 a.m.

Calling hours will be Wednesday, January 12 at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue, from 7 to 9 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to "Danville" of Mom's House, 2505 Franklin Avenue, Toledo, Ohio, named for his late son-in-law, Daniel C. Gaughan.

William H. Rhodes, 93, teacher, administrator and former principal of Princeton High School, died January 4 in Buford, Ga., after a brief illness. Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Rhodes had lived in Princeton for 54 years prior to moving to Buford in 1995.

He was a graduate of Philadelphia Central High School, Waynesburg College, and the University of Pennsylvania. He pursued additional studies at Rutgers University and Trenton State College.

He began his teaching career at Upper Freehold High School, Allentown, in 1930 and rose to the position of high school principal before leaving to teach biology at Princeton High School.

After serving as assistant principal, he became principal of Princeton High School in 1955, a position he held until 1965, when he became assistant superintendent of schools. He retired in 1971.

Mr. Rhodes was a member of the New Jersey School Masters Club, National Education Association, New Jersey Education Association, and the Mercer Retired Educators Association.

He was a former member of the Princeton Lions Club, past secretary of the Princeton Rotary Club, and a member of the Old Guard of Princeton. On September 6, 1953, he was selected by Town Topics as "Man of the Week." He was an Elder of the former St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and a member of the Nassau Presbyterian Church before joining Buford Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Rhodes was active in Masonic affairs and was a past Master of Princeton Lodge No. 38 F. & A.M.; a member of the Scottish Rite, Valley of Trenton, Crescent Temple A.A.O.N.M.S., and the Princeton Shrine Club; and honorary member of Buford Lodge No. 292 F. & A.M.

Husband of the late Ruth Rhodes, he is survived by two sons, William H. Jr. of Buford and Fred C. of Hightstown; four grandsons; five great-grandchildren; and a sister, Gertrude Kennedy of Glassboro.

Funeral services were held at The Kimble Funeral Home on Tuesday at 10 a.m. Masonic services were held at 8 p.m.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 3076 Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville 08648-2304; or the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, 2865 Route 1 South, North Brunswick 08902.

Family Advice Column:

COPING WITH ILLNESS
By the Rev. Peter K. Stimpson

The Rev. Peter K. Stimpson

QUESTION: As if winter isn't dreadful enough, many have been hit by the flu this year. How does somebody cope with illness and keep their spirits up?

ANSWER: Coping with illness can help you to cope with life. If we can manage the tough times, then the rest of life should be "a piece of cake". Facing your illness will help you develop skills with which to face your life, increasing your sense of happiness whether sick or not. Let me be more specific:

- 1. FOCUS ON THE POSITIVES: Your response to this caption is probably, "What positives?" Yes, if you have the flu, the negatives are all too apparent. You ache from head to toe, alternate from freezing to burning up, cannot stop coughing at night, and your nose is so red and irritated that you begin to resemble Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer.
- But, instead of dwelling on what causes you pain, consider what brings you comfort: a warm cup of tea, kleenex with aloe, curling up with a fuzzy blanket and a good book, renting a favorite video, and allowing your spouse and kids to fuss over you. Also, you become more aware of what you look for granted: taking a deep breath, sleeping through the night, and going through your day relatively pain free.
- 2. AVOID UNREALISTIC THINKING: When sick with the flu or a bad cold which is responding all-too-slowly to your white blood cells and the doctor's medicine, you might get discouraged and say: "My life sucks", "I'm dying", "I wish I were dead", or "Why is God doing this to me". Try to calm down, and realize that your fear and frustration are being translated into unrealistic thoughts. You will recover. Your life is not without meaning. And, God is not sitting on a cloud purposely deciding to ruin your day.
- 3. REFRAME THE SITUATION: Bad as your illness feels, it often can be a wake-up call, forcing you to take stock of yourself. Are you working too many hours? Not taking days off? Do your eating and exercising habits need a tad of reform?
- So, bad as it is, having the flu does give you time to rest, recoup your strength, and reflect on the meaning of your life. Instead of wallowing in how "crummy" you feel, why not reframe your temporary illness into more permanent corrections to your life?
- 4. REFLECT ON LIFE: Illness blatantly reminds us of our mortality, forcing us to reflect on the meaning of life. It is not to live forever, for no matter how much health food you eat, or how much exercising you do, all of us will one day die. Hence, why were you born?

The answer to this question requires a book, but my belief is that the purpose of life is to make a choice between good and evil, that choice being evidenced less by what you say and more by what you do. It is not a one-time choice, but a process of daily choices over the span of your life. The more you work on refining who you are, the more maturity and happiness are yours. When you die, the judgment of God is to accept your judgment, leaving you with the consequences of a lifetime of choices.

Hence, being ill allows you to put things in perspective, and remember that happiness is defined less by how much you possess, and more by who you have become.

4 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey 08542 (609) 921-1050

One of Lawrenceville's finest homes, this 77-year-old brick Colonial has been thoughtfully restored and maintained by past and present owners. A gracious portico shelters the handsome front door which opens to a marble-floored back-to-front center hall. The living room has a fireplace with exquisite wood mantel and opens to a solarium with tile floor and door to a flagstone terrace. The large inviting family room with fireplace, bay window, and pegged oak floor with inlaid maple and cherry border opens to a covered terrace. A formal dining room has chairrail, wainscoting and doors to an additional solarium. The light-filled gourmet kitchen adjoins a delightful breakfast room. On the second floor, the master suite with bedroom, sophisticated marble bath, and dressing/exercise room, second bedroom with private bath, and two additional bedrooms sharing a bath. On the third floor, a large playroom, a bedroom and a hall bath, and two additional rooms for expansion. Outside, a sparkling pool. On 2 acres of magnificent trees and luxuriant flowering shrubs.

Why is a futon from WHITE LOTUS superior to any other mattress?

only layers of natural cotton

no stiff or sagging steel
no questionable chemicals

soft, molding, caressing
-unlike bent metal-

natural cotton breathes
-cooler in summer,
-warmer in winter-

Nothing is more comfortable
Nothing is better for your health.
Nothing is better for our earth.

House of The Week

*...close to a
treasured park*

Total renovation, creating a more integral flow of space and light and using sophisticated textures and finishes, has transformed this once ordinary Multi-level into a handsome and welcoming home. The living room, with bay window, opens to the dining room with windowed wall and sliding glass door to a broad deck with built-in bench. A sunny kitchen is well-arranged and has attractive wood cabinetry and delightful ceramic tile floor. Upstairs, the master bedroom with sliding glass door to a secluded deck, two bedrooms, and hall bath with two vanities. On the lower level, a walk-out family room, and full bath. A few steps more to the laundry and ample storage. In Princeton Township. $359,000

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below.
Please ask about Lower Downpayments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options
For purchase prices up to $300,000 monthly mortgage payments (principal & interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.5% with 3 points. A.P.R. 7.955%. As an example: a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $699.21. For purchase prices from $300,001 to $425,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.625% with 3 points on a "jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 8.035%. An example of a $300,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,538.97. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners' association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of Nov. 2, 1999 and subject to change. Not responsible for typographical errors. Mortgage Access Corp., executive offices 225 Littleton Road in Morris Plains, NJ 07950. Licensed Mortgage Banker with the State Department of Banking in NJ, NY, CT and PA. Licensed Lender in DE, MD, VA, and Washington, D.C. Equal Housing Lender. REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Tod Peyton

THE ELEMENTS OF LOCATION

When you are in the market for a home, how should you evaluate the properties that appeal to you? There is an old cliché about the three most important factors of a piece of property — location, location and location.

Some neighborhoods have a certain distinction that attracts buyers, but there are other factors to take into account. A house in a good location may have a few points subtracted if it is located on a busy street. There are buyers who would like to be close to schools, shopping, and churches, but don't want to live across the street from these facilities. You may want an easy commute to your job, but would not consider a location close to the "on" ramp of the interstate. A location close to an airport might be convenient if you are a commercial pilot, but could make it very difficult to sell even the most wonderful house.

As you balance all of the factors, remember that a location liability which gets you a great house at a reasonable price, will probably require you to pass a similar savings on to future buyers.

For dependable, individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.

The heart of this handsome Colonial is in the floor plan modified by its owner to enrich family life by creating a light-splashed flow of daily living spaces and ample areas for individual privacy; all while maintaining the gracious ambiance of its original design. A 2-story entry opens to a living room and a study with recessed lights. The delightful dining area is flanked by a spacious kitchen, with custom oak cabinetry and broad center island, and family room, with recessed lights and fireplace; a sliding glass door opens to a screened porch with ceiling fan. Nearby, the powder room, and laundry/mudroom. On the second floor, the master bedroom with tray ceiling and glamorous bath, and three spacious bedrooms - one of which opens to a hall bath. In the Cherry Valley Country Club community, in Montgomery Township. $525,000

Coldwell Banker

We know Princeton.
The world knows us.

CAMEO OF THE REALTORS

Participating in a recent two-day marketing seminar in Philadelphia were Rita Millner, Peggy Siebens, Barbara Graham, Betsy McGuire, Carol Gross, Judy Perrine and Helen Hamilton. These real estate agents took advantage of one of the many educational programs offered by Coldwell Banker as part of its ongoing training for its agents.

By breaking the wooden boards held by the agents, they symbolically broke through the barriers we all have that keep us from accomplishing our goals. The seminar focused on Internet technology for marketing to the sophisticated buyers and sellers of the 21st century. The new ideas and stimulating concepts that were presented at the seminar will enable these agents to streamline the many aspects of real estate to enhance the service they provide to their clients.

At the end of a sweeping driveway lined with specimen trees is a charming two-story log home. Farmland assessed, this 15-acre property, located in Hillsborough is unique and offers many possibilities. Known as Rams Hill Farm, there are three ample barns, an artist studio and a gallery, beautiful pond with dock, gazebo and walking paths.

This New England log home features a living room with large stone fireplace, hardwood floors, dining room, modern kitchen, five bedrooms and finished walkout basement. Tennis court and heated pool. PRT3418. $990,000

THE BEEKMAN-VREDENBURGH HOUSE CIRCA 1839

Located on five and a half acres, with a view of the river, this delightful colonial combines yesterday's charm with today's modern conveniences. The spacious and inviting rooms are graced by classic architectural details such as 11-foot ceilings, wide pumpkin pine floors, elegant fireplaces, including the original "Keeping Room" fireplace with crane and Dutch oven, some windows with original hand-blown glass, front and back staircases, walk-up attic and stunning porch.

On the first floor you will find gracious foyer and center hall, twin parlors, each with fireplace, formal dining room with fireplace, library with exposed beam ceiling, newly remodeled kitchen with every amenity, pantry and powder room. Upstairs there is a master bedroom wing with bedroom, study or nursery, master bath and master hallway with a wall of closets, two additional bedrooms and bath and hall leading to au pair or staff quarters with two more bedrooms and bath.

There is a 53-foot "Virginia" porch overlooking the river, perfect for kayaking and canoeing, beautiful in-ground pool, a charming outbuilding which could be a studio and two-car garage with shop. The property is adjacent to the Doris Duke Estate and affords privacy. In Hillsborough Township, the house has been tastefully renovated for today's lifestyle while maintaining its original period details. A glimpse of the past available today — only the look is priceless $565,000
